

Soviet Expert Sees Error in U.S. Viet Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department's one-time expert on Soviet affairs, George F. Kennan, believes the United States has made a grave error in its Viet Nam policy.

He testified Thursday before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee as it inquired into American maneuvering in Southeast Asia.

Both Kennan and Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., the committee chairman, expressed fears this week's U.S.-South Vietnamese declaration in Honolulu may have raised an added obstacle to a negotiated peace.

"It seems to me we have further committed ourselves to a point where any sort of a negotiated settlement, short of outright victory, could be called a betrayal of a commitment," Fulbright said.

Kennan, former U.S. ambassador to the Soviet Union and Yugoslavia, added: "It gives me a very, very uneasy feeling to read the joint declaration to which we have subscribed . . . "It does seem to me that if we want to develop the utmost prospect of a peaceful solution, we should have maintained the independence of our position."

Both men indicated they feel the South Vietnamese leaders are more interested in military victory than in economic, social and humane positions stressed by U.S. officials.

Earlier, Kennan said that adopting a strong defensive position while letting the war simmer might convince the Communists "they cannot dislodge us. If they cannot dislodge us, they will have to talk to us, because they want us out."

Kennan, who now is with the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton, N. J., asserted "there is no happy way out of this conflict" but U.S. military involvement should be ended as soon as this can be done "without inordinate damage to our prestige or to the stability of conditions in that area."

"We should do everything possible to avoid escalation," he said, because of the danger that this might involve the nation in major confrontations with Red China and the Soviet Union that could end in nuclear war and "a precipice or an abyss" for the whole world.

While urging a "restrained and moderate policy" in what he called "a remote and secondary theater," Kennan in his prepared statement said this also: "Precipitate and disorderly withdrawal could represent in

Plans Bared For New Ohio Girls' School

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Plans for the new $1.5 million Riverview School for Girls, an institution controlled by the Ohio Youth Commission, were announced by Gov. James A. Rhodes today.

The State Controlling Board Thursday released funds for the complex of buildings, to be erected on Ohio 745 in Delaware County just north of Columbus.

30 acres of grounds opposite Scioto Village, the present industrial school for girls.

Groundbreaking for the new school is set for July with a tentative occupancy date of next Sept. 1. The three-building complex will include an administration building, classroom and vocational building, and a two-story cottage with four wings.

State officials said it would be the first new state girls' institution in Ohio in 98 years, and is described by Rhodes as part of a long-range program to bring population levels of existing institutions to rated capacities.

He called it another phase of the new Ohio Youth Commission program for establishment of more diversified services for Ohio's delinquent youth.

The school will house 150 of the more aggressive and hostile delinquent girls between the ages of 15 and 18.

The number of wounded climbed sharply over the previous week, increasing 706 to a new overall total of 9,658.

The new current total of missing in action is 161, an increase of 12.

For Lunch: Beef, Bible

NEW YORK (AP) — Around the luncheon table in an exclusive Manhattan club the topic was not of stocks and mergers but of the Bible.

The subject was "Is God Dead?" and the captains of commerce probed it at the beef-and-bible luncheon as they would a particularly vexing business problem.

"Some people seem to think that God finished the Creation, then died or moved away or forgot it," said one man.

"But if you look here in verse 17, there is a continuity of Divine action. It says God has not left Himself 'without witness, in that He did good, and gave us rain from heaven, and fruitful seasons, filling our hearts with food and gladness.'"

One of the discussion leaders was Fred R. Esty, president of the United States Banknote Corp.

He said: "The Apostle Peter understood Jesus when he said to Him, 'Lord, to whom shall we go, for Thou hast the words of eternal life. And we believe and are sure that Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.'"

"The thing they want of God now is to separate Jesus Christ from a dead God and leave Him there just an earthly Jesus. But in Revelation 1:18, Jesus says, 'I am He that liveth, and was dead, and behold, I am alive for ever more, and have the keys of hell and death.'"

Hubert Tours Saigon Area

Exuberant Veep Visits Natives

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey made a four-hour tour of improvement projects in the Saigon area today and pronounced the work "very fine."

The exuberant vice president talked with village elders and local chiefs, inspected a variety of improvements, shook hands, voiced a greeting in Vietnamese and joined in group singing.

One little girl hung back bashfully from the songster. Humphrey knelt beside her, took her tiny hands in his and brought her into the circle of 20 Vietnamese toddlers.

"One, two, three...one, two, three," he chanted, slapping his hands and bobbing his head.

For a few minutes Humphrey's visit to this war-scarred land had the happy look of an American-style political campaign. The vice president, though flushed by the tropical heat, enjoyed himself enormously in his visit with the kindergarten class in a village five miles south of Saigon.

The visit to the newly pacified village of New Prosperity was Humphrey's first stop on a four-hour tour of economic and social projects of the type with which the Saigon government hopes to recapture the hearts of the people.

From the village a helicopter carried Humphrey to Saigon slum districts, where he inspected a new community for refugees being built by a U.S.-Vietnamese student group, and a low-rent housing development.

"Here we see the principle of self-help really at work," said Humphrey, who arrived Thursday to dramatize President Johnson's hopes for economic, social and political progress in this battleground with the Communists.

"This is very encouraging, when you think of what it was only a few months ago," Humphrey told newsmen. "We talk a lot about self-help—we're really seeing it in action here."

Humphrey probably will travel into the field again Saturday to visit with U.S. troops. He will leave Sunday morning for stops in Thailand, Laos, Pakistan, India, Australia, New Zealand and possibly other countries to brief them on the U.S. programs in Viet Nam.

ITHACA, N. Y. (AP) — William A. Dillon, 88, an entertainer and writer of songs who was known as the "grand old man of Tin Pan Alley," died Thursday. Dillon's songs included "I Want a Girl Just Like the Girl That Married Dear Old Dad."

McIlwain Snipes At Reams Move

CINCINNATI (AP) — Rep. Harry McIlwain snipes Frazier Reams Jr., Democratic candidate for nomination for governor, is misleading the voters by implying that Reams has the support of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

McIlwain, also a candidate for the Democratic nomination, said a statement by Reams Wednesday night "was a not so subtle attempt to deceive and hoodwink the Democratic primary voters into believing that he (Reams) had the blessings of the vice president for the nomination."

Reams had said he is not seeking Humphrey's support for the primary, but added that the vice president "offered to come into Ohio to help my campaign in the fall."

3 Regional School Bus Coordinators Are Named

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Three district school officials are being recommended to the State Board of Education Monday as regional coordinators of school bus transportation under the new Ohio law.

Robert Seward, general supervisor of Pickaway County Schools, and Herman Massie, superintendent of Laureville Local District, are two of the coordinators named.

If approved by the state board, they will resign their present positions.

State School Supt. E. E. Holt noted that eventually 30 regional coordinators will be needed, but some are needed now to assure readiness of the new bus program by the start of school this fall.

The 1965 law extending school bus transportation to private and parochial school pupils required the Ohio Department of Education to draft rules setting up the mechanics of the law.

The board cannot adopt the rules at Monday's meeting since the rules must be approved at a public hearing and final action must wait until at least 30 days after the board declares its intent to adopt.

But proposals to get the ball rolling Monday include recommended appointments of the first three of the 30 regional coordinators.

Seward's Region 21 would include Fairfield, Fayette, Madison, Pickaway and Ross counties.

Roger C. Smith, supervisor of buildings and grounds for Beavercreek Local School District in Greene County, will be assigned proposed Region 18 of Greene, Clinton and Warren counties.

Massie will have proposed Region 26 of Athens, Hocking, Meigs, Morgan, Perry and Vinton counties.

Regions 1 through 11, made up of single counties, would be, in order, Cuyahoga, Lorain, Summit, Trumbull, Mahoning, Stark, Lucas, Franklin, Montgomery, Butler, and Hamilton. The remaining regions would include:

No. 13: Van Wert, Allen, Auglaize and Mercer counties.

Bond To Appeal Denial of Seat

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Representative Julian Bond will appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court a decision upholding the Georgia House of Representatives' refusal to seat him because of statements held to be "at war with the national policy."

In a 2-1 decision, a federal court ruled Thursday that the House action was legal and rational on the basis of Bond's voicing sympathy with men unwilling to respond to a military draft.

Bond, 26, a Negro and a Democrat, was barred from the House last Jan. 10 because of his statements labeling U.S. participation in Viet Nam as aggression and urging men to seek alternatives to military service.

Castro OKs Latins' Right to Revolution

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Latin Americans have the right to overthrow their governments and anyone who helps them is not guilty of intervention, Fidel Castro says.

In an eight-page letter Thursday to U.N. Secretary-General U Thant, the Cuban prime minister rejected charges made by 18 Latin-American governments that the Havana conference of revolutionaries last month intervened in their domestic affairs.

DeGaulle Offers To Talk Peace

'New Left' Eyes Political Future

WASHINGTON (AP) — Militant young foes of U.S. policy in Viet Nam—people who call themselves the new left—are working to shape a national political organization out of their protest and peace forces.

"This is what I call political guerrilla warfare," said California Rep. Jeffrey Cohelan, a Democrat and self-described liberal who has seen his Oakland home office besieged by demonstrators. "They've picked me as a target," he said.

Cohelan's sin, in the eyes of his challengers, is general support of President Johnson's policy on South Viet Nam.

Cohelan said in an interview he is "more dove than hawk," that escalation of the war would be "absolutely mad," but that the United States should not now withdraw.

Immediate withdrawal from Viet Nam is the new left rallying cry, but Paul Booth, a 22-year-old leader in the new political movement, said its goals go far beyond the war issue.

Booth, of Chicago, is national secretary of Students for a Democratic Society. He said the new political operation, built around that organization and others like it, will be called the National Conference for New Policies.

While its organizers said the conference has not yet pinpointed its election-day targets, Booth said his own organization is already at work for Robert Scheer, who has said he will oppose Cohelan.

"Even though Cohelan has a pretty good voting record," Booth said, "a lot of people on the left see the campaign as building an organization."

Booth added: "People on the left are saying to guys like Cohelan, it's not enough just to cast the right votes on some of these things."

4 Training Programs Set in Ohio

CLEVELAND (AP)—The U.S. secretary of labor has approved four training programs in Ohio for 185 unemployed or underemployed persons. The programs will cost the federal government $156,593.

Willard W. Wertz, secretary of labor, announced Thursday that in Akron, 120 trainees will undergo eight weeks of instruction at the adult vocational high school as electronic assemblers at a cost of $45,668.

Fifteen persons will take a 19-week course in Cincinnati for operation of industrial sewing machines. The program will cost $26,662.

A project in the Lorain-Elyria area will give 25 weeks training at Admiral King High School in Lorain for 25 clerk-stenographers at a cost of $31,841.

In Lancaster, 25 machine operators will be trained for a 37-week course at a cost of $52,422.

"These programs, these welfare programs, are not really very exciting. They don't really solve the problem."

"It's more important to raise these political issues, and to build an organization, maybe Scheer won't win, but in two years we'll be stronger within the party."

Scheer, who advocates an immediate U.S. pullout in Viet Nam, has said he will run as an independent next November if he does not win the Democratic congressional nomination in the June 7 primary.

The national Democratic party is not worried about the new political movement, one official there said—but "that doesn't mean that there won't be friends of President Johnson who will step in if it is necessary."

Traffic Toll Sets Record

CHICAGO (AP)—A record toll of 49,000 traffic deaths in the United States last year was reported today by the National Safety Council.

The council said 1.8 million persons suffered disabling injuries in 1965 motor vehicle accidents. The economic loss was calculated at $8.5 billion, $5.5 billion of this in wage losses, medical expenses and overhead insurance costs.

The one bright thread in the dark pattern was the council's assertion that the rate of deaths per 100 million travel miles declined for the first time since 1961—from 5.7 in 1964 to 5.6 last year. This compared with a 1945 rate of 11.3.

Council statisticians computed a 5 per cent rise in the total number of vehicle-miles last year, 880 billion.

Nevertheless, the total of deaths last year was 3 per cent greater than the former record of 47,700 in 1964.

Another deadly record was reflected in the December toll last year when 4,940 persons were killed—10 per cent more than the 4,490 of December 1964.

In terms of deaths per 10,000 registered motor vehicles, the 1965 total of accident deaths was up—from 2.7 in 1964 to 2.9.

The council has urged an 18-point national program which Pyle said could slash the annual toll in half. Seven points call for actions which must be pressed by the federal government, such as use of existing legislation to spur engineering of safer vehicles and increasing financial incentives for traffic research.

Other points would step up efforts by state and local governments, and recommendations that the auto industry, itself, accelerate the building of safer vehicles. The proposals were made in testimony recently before a Senate subcommittee on executive organization, headed by Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn.

But Present Is Not Time

U.S. Pressures On Cong Issue

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle would act as middleman in a settling of the Viet Nam war but he does not believe negotiating conditions now exist.

And, highly informed sources said today, he has for that reason made no overtures to either side. These informants say he has not taken any initiative, contrary to reports published in London.

They added that he has not responded to a letter from President Ho Chi Minh of North Viet Nam, asking that he lend his good offices. The Americans have made no request of him but it is likely they would not turn him down if he emerged as a choice to act as a go-between.

One of the reasons De Gaulle believes no conditions for negotiation now exist is the resumption of bombing of North Viet Nam, a policy which he publicly "regretted."

Just what conditions would be suitable for negotiating, in De Gaulle's opinion, the sources were unable to say.

The U.S. is seeking to put diplomatic pressure on North Viet Nam to modify its demand that the Communist National Liberation Front — NLF — must represent South Viet Nam in any peace negotiations.

President Johnson has sent word to interested foreign governments that the demand made by North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh is wholly unacceptable and has created an obstacle to efforts to arrange a peace conference.

Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, envoy to the United Nations, said after a two-hour meeting with Johnson Thursday that U.S. policy is flexible on the issue of an NLF role in negotiations. The NLF is the political arm of the Communist guerrilla forces.

"We will bargain on that at the conference table," Goldberg told reporters. But he emphasized that the demand which Ho made public Jan. 28 is unacceptable to the United States, and he made clear it would have to be modified if the issue is to be resolved.

Johnson briefed Goldberg on his meeting in Hawaii earlier this week with the leaders of South Viet Nam, then sent him back to U.N. headquarters in New York to renew his efforts with Secretary-General U Thant and members of the Security Council as well as representatives of other countries to find some way to bring the Vietnamese war to a close.

Thugs, Ages 10 and 15, Get $50 in Grocery

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The two robbers who took about $50 from a grocer Thursday didn't appear the least bit nervous, the grocer told police.

The grocer said two boys, whose ages he estimated at 10 and 15, worked as a team. The older boy held "something that looked like a gun" as he directed the younger boy to clean out the cash register.

Tired Men on Long Run

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (AP) — A bunch of tired New Jersey business men, including a 65-year-old, were off today on a 100-mile run.

They were off Thursday, too, and the day before, and will be again, because naturally they aren't running that distance all at once. They're doing it in bite-sized pieces.

Object: healthier hearts and trimmer waists. "Some run a quarter of a mile at a lick. Hardier types gallop up to six miles. They do this five days a week."

By the time they have all completed their 100 miles around the Morristown High School cinder track, Robert Freeman figures they will be in pretty good shape. Freeman, physical director of the Morristown YMCA, started the 100-mile conditioning program for sedentary citizens two years ago. The present class numbers 40.

"They run no matter what the weather, and have made tremendous improvement in their hearts and waists," Freeman reported.

Roger Borda, a 37-year-old lithographer, said he had shed 20 pounds and was almost cured of his severe asthma — "I've had to buy new clothes but look at the saving in doctor bills."

Al Dodson, 63, had flat feet when he joined the group. "Now I'm running on the balls of my feet and haven't felt so well since I rowed on the Cornell freshman crew in 1921," he told an interviewer.

"Running gives a flush to the circulation," said Maxwell Pollock, 50, a chemist. "Walking is great but it takes too long to get the same effect. Who has time to walk two hours a day?"

Lawrence Mills, 49, a deputy county clerk, said he weighed 212 when he first faced the starting line and felt sleepy all the time. "Now I'm a wide-awake 153 pounds."

Said Freeman: "Some of these men couldn't run a quarter-mile when they started. Now most of them run three miles a night and some run up to six."

"Among athletes the best hearts are in long-distance runners and they live longer. Your body is like your car — if you only drive it as far as the corner grocery once a week the valves start rusting."

Presbyterian Named as Council Chief

GENEVA (AP) — The Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. was elected head of the World Council of Churches today.

The council's 100-member central committee elected the 59-year-old American its secretary-general to succeed Dr. W.A. Visser't Hooft of the Netherlands.

Dr. Visser't Hooft has led the organization, one of the most influential in Christendom, since its creation 18 years ago. He is retiring.

The World Council of Churches is a group of 214 Protestant, Anglican, Orthodox and Old Catholic churches in more than 80 countries.

"I accept the election as a word from God," Dr. Blake told the central committee.

A leading figure in American church life, Dr. Blake has campaigned vigorously for church unity. He was the prime mover behind the recent merger of the two sections of the Presbyterian Church in the United States.

As head of the world council, he will be in a position to widen his activities on behalf of Christian unity.

3 Regional School Bus Coordinators Are Named

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Three district school officials are being recommended to the State Board of Education Monday as regional coordinators of school bus transportation under the new Ohio law.

Robert Seward, general supervisor of Pickaway County Schools, and Herman Massie, superintendent of Laurelville Local District, are two of the coordinators named.

If approved by the state board, they will resign their present positions.

State School Supt. E. E. Holt noted that eventually 30 regional coordinators will be needed, but some are needed now to assure readiness of the new bus program by the start of school this fall.

Bond To Appeal Denial of Seat

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Representative Julian Bond will appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court a decision upholding the Georgia House of Representatives' refusal to seat him because of statements held to be "in war with the national policy."

Bond, 26, a Negro and a Democrat, was barred from the House last Jan. 10 because of his statements labeling U.S. participation in Viet Nam as aggression and urging men to seek alternatives to military service.

Immediate withdrawal from Viet Nam is the new left rallying cry, but Paul Booth, a 22-year-old leader in the new political movement, said its goals go far beyond the war issue.

Booth, of Chicago, is national secretary of Students for a Democratic Society. He said the new political operation, built around that organization and others like it, will be called the National Conference for New Policies.

While its organizers said the conference has not yet pinpointed its election-day targets, Booth said his own organization is already at work for Robert Scheer, who has said he will oppose Cohelan.

"Even though Cohelan is a pretty good voting record," Booth said, "a lot of people on the left see the campaign as building an organization."

Booth added: "People on the left are saying to guys like Cohelan, it's not enough just to cast the right votes on some of these things."

"These programs, these welfare programs, are not really very exciting. They don't really solve the problem."

"It's more important to raise these political issues, and to build an organization. Maybe Scheer won't win, but in two years we'll be stronger within the party."

Scheer, who advocates an immediate U.S. pullout in Viet Nam, has said he will run as an independent next November if he does not win the Democratic congressional nomination in the June 7 primary.

The national Democratic party is not worried about the new political movement, one official there said—but "that doesn't mean that there won't be friends of President Johnson who will step in if it is necessary."

Traffic Toll Sets Record

CHICAGO (AP)—A record toll of 49,000 traffic deaths in the United States last year was reported today by the National Safety Council.

The council said 1.8 million persons suffered disabling injuries in 1965 motor vehicle accidents. The economic loss was calculated at $8.5 billion, $5.5 billion of this in wage losses, medical expenses and overhead insurance costs.

The one bright thread in the dark pattern was the council's assertion that the rate of deaths per 100 million travel miles declined for the first time since 1961—from 5.7 in 1964 to 5.6 last year. This compared with a 1945 rate of 11.3.

Council statisticians computed a 5 per cent rise in the total number of vehicle-miles last year, 880 billion.

Nevertheless, the total of deaths last year was 3 per cent greater than the former record of 47,700 in 1964.

Another deadly record was reflected in the December toll last year when 4,940 persons were killed—10 per cent more than the 4,490 of December 1964.

In terms of deaths per 10,000 registered motor vehicles, the 1965 total of accident deaths was up—from 2.7 in 1964 to 2.9.

The council has urged an 18-point national program which Pyle said could slash the annual toll in half. Seven points call for actions which must be pressed by the federal government, such as use of existing legislation to spur engineering of safer vehicles and increasing financial incentives for traffic research.

Other points would step up efforts by state and local governments, and recommendations that the auto industry, itself, accelerate the building of safer vehicles. The proposals were made in testimony recently before a Senate subcommittee on executive organization, headed by Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn.

But Present Is Not Time

U.S. Pressures On Cong Issue

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle would act as middleman in a settling of the Viet Nam war but he does not believe negotiating conditions now exist.

And, highly informed sources said today, he has for that reason made no overtures to either side. These informants say he has not taken any initiative, contrary to reports published in London.

They added that he has not responded to a letter from President Ho Chi Minh of North Viet Nam, asking that he lend his good offices. The Americans have made no request of him but it is likely they would not turn him down if he emerged as a choice to act as a go-between.

One of the reasons De Gaulle believes no conditions for negotiation now exist is the resumption of bombing of North Viet Nam, a policy which he publicly "regretted."

Just what conditions would be suitable for negotiating, in De Gaulle's opinion, the sources were unable to say.

The U.S. is seeking to put diplomatic pressure on North Viet Nam to modify its demand that the Communist National Liberation Front — NLF — must represent South Viet Nam in any peace negotiations.

President Johnson has sent word to interested foreign governments that the demand made by North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh is wholly unacceptable and has created an obstacle to efforts to arrange a peace conference.

Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, envoy to the United Nations, said after a two-hour meeting with Johnson Thursday that U.S. policy is flexible on the issue of an NLF role in negotiations. The NLF is the political arm of the Communist guerrilla forces.

"We will bargain on that at the conference table," Goldberg told reporters. But he emphasized that the demand which Ho made public Jan. 28 is unacceptable to the United States, and he made clear it would have to be modified if the issue is to be resolved.

Johnson briefed Goldberg on his meeting in Hawaii earlier this week with the leaders of South Viet Nam, then sent him back to U.N. headquarters in New York to renew his efforts with Secretary-General U Thant and members of the Security Council as well as representatives of other countries to find some way to bring the Vietnamese war to a close.

Thugs, Ages 10 and 15, Get $50 in Grocery

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The two robbers who took about $50 from a grocer Thursday didn't appear the least bit nervous, the grocer told police.

The grocer said two boys, whose ages he estimated at 10 and 15, worked as a team. The older boy held "something that looked like a gun" as he directed the younger boy to clean out the cash register.

For Lunch: Beef, Bible

NEW YORK (AP) — Around the luncheon table in an exclusive Manhattan club the topic was not of stocks and mergers but of the Bible.

The subject was "Is God Dead?" and the captains of commerce probed it at the beef-and-bible luncheon as they would a particularly vexing business problem.

"Some people seem to think that God finished the Creation, then died or moved away or forgot it," said one man.

"But if you look here in verse 17, there is a continuity of Divine action. It says God has not left Himself without witness, in that He did good, and gave us rain from heaven, and fruitful seasons, filling our hearts with food and gladness."

One of the discussion leaders was Fred R. Esty, president of the United States Banknote Corp.

He said: "The Apostle Peter understood Jesus when he said to Him, 'Lord, to whom shall we go, for Thou hast the words of eternal life. And we believe and are sure that Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.'"

"The thing they want of God now is to separate Jesus Christ from a dead God and leave Him there just an earthly Jesus. But in Revelation 1:18, Jesus says, 'I am He that liveth, and was dead, and behold, I am alive for ever more, and have the keys of hell and death.'"

One of the 16 men around the table Thursday said, "Our forefathers were Bible readers."

"But that's old hat," another remarked.

"All right, then," the first man said, "let's start to make it new hat."

The Manhattan group is one of 700 across the nation that meets for discussions under sponsorship of the International Christian Leadership, an organization of laymen of all faiths.

Thomas B. Kennedy, editor of the official Catholic Directory for P. J. Kennedy and Sons, said of the luncheons: "I find here a group of men who want to lead a total Christian life. It reminds me of what the early Christians must have done, coming together for support and strength and fortification in a hostile environment."

McIlwain Snipes At Reams Move

CINCINNATI (AP) — Rep. Harry McIlwain says Frazier Reams Jr., Democratic candidate for nomination for governor, is misleading the voters by implying that Reams has the support of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

McIlwain, also a candidate for the Democratic nomination, said a statement by Reams Wednesday night "was a not so subtle attempt to deceive and hoodwink the Democratic primary voters into believing that he (Reams) had the blessings of the vice president for the nomination."

Reams had said he is not seeking Humphrey's support for the primary, but added that the vice president "offered to come into Ohio to help my campaign in the fall."

OSU Frosh Policy Told

Trustees Hear President Explain

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The trustees of Ohio State University have been briefed by President Novice Fawcett on OSU policy on freshman admissions.

Generally, it eliminates "high school rank" as a criteria for admission to the main OSU campus in Columbus and requires that admission applications be accepted in the order received.

Fawcett reported to the board that proposed cuts in federal funds to land grant institutions, suggested in President Johnson's budget, would cut Ohio State's salary allowance under the Land Grant Act from $430,710 down to $50,000 a year.

He said it would require a $10 hike in student fees to make up the loss, and that a hike already is being considered for next year to meet rising costs.

The president said he intends to notify Ohio members of Congress of his opposition to the cut and urged trustees to do the same.

In other actions, the board:—Received contract award recommendations totaling $2.8 million for a major addition to the university's physics building.

—Agreed to hire Potter, Tyler, Martin, and Roth, Inc., Cincinnati architects, to draw plans for a third floor addition to the law building.

—Voted to accept grants and gifts during December totaling $8.9 million, including a $6 million grant from the U. S. Public Health Service to assist in construction of a new basic science building.

—Approved for the State Highway Department two highway easements needed to approve Ohio 39 on the Mansfield branch campus.

Patrolman Tries, Fails To Save Man

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP)—A state highway patrolman held the head of an accident victim above water in a ditch for an hour and a half early today after the man was pinned in the cab of his truck. The driver was dead on arrival at a hospital.

The State Highway Patrol said the victim, 24-year-old Elmer Howard Jr. of near Wheelersburg, was driving on U. S. 23 near Bowling Green when his steel-laden truck hit the rear of a delivery truck that had stalled on the highway.

The steel truck crashed into a deep ditch filled with water, pinning Howard in the cab. Then Patrolman Neal Staten arrived on the scene and held Howard's head out of the water until workman managed to get him out of the crushed cab. He is believed to have died en route to a hospital.

The delivery truck had ran out of gas. The driver, Robert P. Saunders, 37, of Detroit, was treated for minor injuries and released.

An Ironton motorist involved in a one car accident on N. Court St. shortly after midnight, was handed a fine of $250 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in the county jail by Municipal Court Judge Sterling Lamb today.

Theodore E. Brown, 23, was charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicants.

Circleville Policeman Leonard Sines, the arresting officer, told the court Brown traveled nearly four-fifths of a mile left of center, and hit a total of 11 guard rail posts.

Sines said he was approaching Brown at the time of the incident and had to swerve into the parking lot at a northend supermarket to avoid being struck.

The judge suspended Brown's driving rights for one year.

Red Casualties Running High In Viet Battle

U.S. Claims 2000 Kills in 2 Weeks; 9th Plane Lost

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. forces today reported another 184 Communists killed by American planes and troops, pushing claimed Communist losses in men beyond 2,000 in the past two weeks. An American spokesman said these were the highest Red casualty figures of the war.

American Air Force and Navy jets again pounded targets in North and South Viet Nam. A Navy Skyraider became the ninth victim of Communist anti-aircraft defenses since the United States resumed the air war on the North 12 days ago.

The plane was shot down 15 miles north of the 17th Parallel Thursday by heavy flak, an Air Force spokesman said. No parachute was seen by other pilots and the Navy airman was presumed killed.

The Viet Cong shot and killed an American civilian engineer operating a tractor in a jungle clearing at a rock quarry 20 miles northeast of Saigon. His partner escaped when two guerrillas leaped out of spider holes and opened fire.

A U.S. 1st Infantry Division patrol later recovered the body. The engineer was not immediately identified. He was employed by the big American R.M.K. construction combine.

The shooting occurred near the spot where the Viet Cong kidnapped two Americans, one Vietnamese and one Canadian employed by the firm in December. The Dutch-born Canadian was killed, but the three others were rescued by American troops.

Casualties also rose sharply on the American side in the past week, with the number of U.S. servicemen killed in Viet Nam combat since Jan. 1, 1961, officially listed at 2,005. According to Defense Department figures released in Washington Thursday the roll of dead increased by 103 in the seven days ending Monday night.

The list of wounded rose 706 to a total of 9,658, compared with 391 in the previous week. Missing in action totaled 161, an increase of 12.

Many of the casualties on both sides came during Operations Masher and White Wing, which brought U.S. 1st Cavalrymen and Marines together with other Allied troops in a big offensive in the Communist-dominated coastal rielands 300 miles northeast of Saigon.

The two-week campaign culminated in the retaking of the lush An Lao Valley, which has been held by the Viet Cong for years and has provided them with considerable food.

The Communists fled before the Allied push into the valley, but some minor shooting broke out today around Bong Son, a few miles south of the valley. A spokesman said U.S. air cavalrymen killed eight Viet Cong and captured 14 along with 70 belts of 50-caliber machine-gun ammunition.

The air cavalry claims upwards of 800 Communists killed in their end of the operation, although the big push failed to nail several North Vietnamese and Viet Cong regiments reported in the area.

Kay, 47, faces a 2-to-20 year prison sentence. Judge John L. Angelotta postponed sentencing pending a motion for a new trial. Kay was free on $1,000 bond.

Kay, founder of Republican clubs in Lakewood and Cleveland and an unsuccessful candidate in the past for public office from the city to state level, was charged with paying $200 in 1963 to appraiser Thomas J. Dow of Columbus.

The money allegedly was for an inflated valuation of a West Side lot in the path of Interstate 71 in Cleveland. Kay represented the owner of the property.

JAIPUR, India (AP)—A woman member of the Indian Parliament denounced Indian dependence upon American food and economic aid today, charging that Americans "are interested only in what they can get out of us."

"Are we going to stay in bondage to America and the West?" asked Mrs. Sharda Mukherjee during debate on a food policy resolution before the executive committee of India's ruling Congress party. The committee is preparing resolutions for the annual party convention opening Saturday.

Asserting that India is not utilizing its vast manpower, she proposed formation of a huge "land army" to make India self sufficient in food.

"Until we utilize our manpower for our good and not for the good of America we will not progress," she declared.

CATANIA, Sicily (AP)—Mt. Etna's latest eruption, now in its fifth day, has built a new cone on the northeast slope of the volcano.

Vulcanologists said the new cone had built up to within 300 feet of the height of the giant central crater atop the 10,705-foot volcano.

The explosions have increased from one every three minutes to 15 or 20 per minute and the lava flow still is heavy. But there was no imminent danger to villages far down the slopes.

Imports of foreign cars into the U. S. last year amounted to 485,000 units.

Cautioning against expansion of hostilities "directed to achievement of something called 'victory,'" Kennan expressed doubt that even smashing military successes would bring "the complete disappearance of the recalcitrance with which we are faced, the formal submission by the adversaries to our will, and the complete realization of our stated political aims."

Kennan, who was chairman of the State Department's Policy Planning Committee in the developing years of the cold war from 1947 to 1949, made it clear that he views the present involvement in Viet Nam as a mistake. He put it this way: "From the long-term standpoint . . . and on principle, I think our military involvement in Viet Nam has to be recognized as unfortunate—as something we could not choose deliberately if the choice were ours to make all over again today."

NEW YORK (AP)—From the opening tonight of what Sammy Davis Jr. calls his "second season" through a Bob Hope comedy special next Thursday night, the network television emphasis will be on entertainment.

Davis returns to "The Sammy Davis Jr. Show" on NBC (8:30-9:30 EST) for the first time since its premiere a month ago when it was lambasted by critics while achieving high ratings. He was kept off the show by contract commitments with ABC.

Earlier tonight, too, there is another in the CBS series based on film taken under the aegis of the National Geographic Society. This one is called "The Voyage of the Brigantine Yankee," a film account of the wanderings of a sailing ship manned by a doctor, a cook and 19 young Americans (7:30-8:30).

Hostess on Sunday evening's NBC Telephone Hour (6:30-7:30) will be actress Julie Harris, with singer Barbara McNair among the soloists.

"Gene Kelly's New York," is a Monday evening song-and-dance special (10-11 p.m.) on CBS with the star assisted by Gower Champion, Woody Allen and Tommy Steele.

A conflict of special programs occurs Tuesday night when ABC presents "The Anatomy of Pop," documenting the emergence of the modern musical idiom with a star cast including Tony Bennett, the Dave Clark Five and Duke Ellington (10-11). At the same time there will be a CBS Report show on "The Divorce Dilemma."

Hope's special, with Martha Raye and Danny Thomas, is the highlight for Thursday on NBC (9-10).

OSU Frash Policy Told

Trustees Hear President Explain

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The trustees of Ohio State University have been briefed by President Novice Fawcett on OSU policy on freshman admissions.

Generally, it eliminates "high school rank" as a criteria for admission to the main OSU campus in Columbus and requires that admission applications be accepted in the order received.

Fawcett reported to the board that proposed cuts in federal funds to land grant institutions, suggested in President Johnson's budget, would cut Ohio State's salary allowance under the Land Grant Act from $430,710 down to $50,000 a year.

He said it would require a $10 hike in student fees to make up the loss, and that a hike already is being considered for next year to meet rising costs.

The president said he intends to notify Ohio members of Congress of his opposition to the cut and urged trustees to do the same.

In other actions, the board: —Received contract award recommendations totaling $2.8 million for a major addition to the university's physics building.

—Agreed to hire Potter, Tyler, Martin, and Roth, Inc., Cincinnati architects, to draw plans for a third floor addition to the law building.

—Voted to accept grants and gifts during December totaling $8.9 million, including a $6 million grant from the U. S. Public Health Service to assist in construction of a new basic science building.

—Approved for the State Highway Department two highway easements needed to approve Ohio 39 on the Mansfield branch campus.

Patrolman Tries, Fails To Save Man

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP)—A state highway patrolman held the head of an accident victim above water in a ditch for an hour and a half early today after the man was pinned in the cab of his truck. The driver was dead on arrival at a hospital.

The State Highway Patrol said the victim, 24-year-old Elmer Howard Jr. of near Wheelersburg, was driving on U. S. 23 near Bowling Green when his steel-laden truck hit the rear of a delivery truck that had stalled on the highway.

The steel truck crashed into a deep ditch filled with water, pinning Howard in the cab. Then Patrolman Neal Staten arrived on the scene and held Howard's head out of the water until workmen managed to get him out of the crushed cab. He is believed to have died en route to a hospital.

The delivery truck had ran out of gas. The driver, Robert P. Saunders, 37, of Detroit, was treated for minor injuries and released.

Theodore E. Brown, 23, was charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicants.

Circleville Policeman Leonard Sines, the arresting officer, told the court Brown traveled nearly four-fifths of a mile left of center, and hit a total of 11 guard rail posts.

Sines said he was approaching Brown at the time of the incident and had to swerve into the parking lot at a northend supermarket to avoid being struck.

The judge suspended Brown's driving rights for one year.

Red Casualties Running High In Viet Battle

U.S. Claims 2000 Kills in 2 Weeks; 9th Plane Lost

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. forces today reported another 184 Communists killed by American planes and troops, pushing claimed Communist losses in men beyond 2,000 in the past two weeks. An American spokesman said these were the highest Red casualty figures of the war.

American Air Force and Navy jets again pounded targets in North and South Viet Nam. A Navy Skyraider became the ninth victim of Communist anti-aircraft defenses since the United States resumed the air war on the North 12 days ago.

The plane was shot down 15 miles north of the 17th Parallel Thursday by heavy flak, an Air Force spokesman said. No parachute was seen by other pilots and the Navy airman was presumed killed.

The Viet Cong shot and killed an American civilian engineer operating a tractor in a jungle clearing at a rock quarry 20 miles northeast of Saigon. His partner escaped when two guerrillas leaped out of spider holes and opened fire.

A U.S. 1st Infantry Division patrol later recovered the body. The engineer was not immediately identified. He was employed by the big American R.M.K. construction combine.

The shooting occurred near the spot where the Viet Cong kidnapped two Americans, one Vietnamese and one Canadian employed by the firm in December. The Dutch-born Canadian was killed, but the three others were rescued by American troops.

Casualties also rose sharply on the American side in the past week, with the number of U.S. servicemen killed in Viet Nam combat since Jan. 1, 1961, officially listed at 2,005. According to Defense Department figures released in Washington Thursday the roll of dead increased by 103 in the seven days ending Monday night.

The list of wounded rose 706 to a total of 9,658, compared with 391 in the previous week. Missing in action totaled 161, an increase of 12.

Many of the casualties on both sides came during Operations Masher and White Wing, which brought U.S. 1st Cavalrymen and Marines together with other Allied troops in a big offensive in the Communist-dominated coastal rielands 300 miles northeast of Saigon.

The two-week campaign culminated in the retaking of the lush An Lao Valley, which has been held by the Viet Cong for years and has provided them with considerable food.

The Communists fled before the Allied push into the valley, but some minor shooting broke out today around Bong Son, a few miles south of the valley. A spokesman said U.S. air cavalrymen killed eight Viet Cong and captured 14 along with 70 belts of 50-caliber machine-gun ammunition.

The air cavalry claims upwards of 800 Communists killed in their end of the operation, although the big push failed to nail several North Vietnamese and Viet Cong regiments reported in the area.

Kay, 47, faces a 2-to-20 year prison sentence. Judge John L. Angelotta postponed sentencing pending a motion for a new trial. Kay was free on $1,000 bond.

Kay, founder of Republican clubs in Lakewood and Cleveland and an unsuccessful candidate in the past for public office from the city to state level, was charged with paying $200 in 1963 to appraiser Thomas J. Dow of Columbus.

The money allegedly was for an inflated valuation of a West Side lot in the path of Interstate 71 in Cleveland. Kay represented the owner of the property.

our present circumstances a disservice to our own interests and even to world peace greater than any that might have been involved in our failure to engage ourselves in the first place."

Cautioning against expansion of hostilities "directed to achievement of something called 'victory,'" Kennan expressed doubt that even smashing military successes would bring "the complete disappearance of the recalcitrance with which we are faced, the formal submission by the adversaries to our will, and the complete realization of our stated political aims."

Kennan, who was chairman of the State Department's Policy Planning Committee in the developing years of the cold war from 1947 to 1949, made it clear that he views the present involvement in Viet Nam as a mistake. He put it this way: "From the long-term standpoint . . . and on principle, I think our military involvement in Viet Nam has to be recognized as unfortunate—as something we could not choose deliberately if the choice were ours to make all over again today."

NEW YORK (AP)—From the opening tonight of what Sammy Davis Jr. calls his "second season" through a Bob Hope comedy special next Thursday night, the network television emphasis will be on entertainment.

Davis returns to "The Sammy Davis Jr. Show" on NBC (8:30-9:30 EST) for the first time since its premiere a month ago when it was lambasted by critics while achieving high ratings. He was kept off the show by contract commitments with ABC.

Earlier tonight, too, there is another in the CBS series based on film taken under the aegis of the National Geographic Society. This one is called "The Voyage of the Argonauts," a film account of the wanderings of a sailing ship manned by a doctor, a cook and 19 young Americans (7:30-8:30).

Hostess on Sunday evening's NBC Telephone Hour (6:30-7:30) will be actress Julie Harris, with singer Barbara McNair among the soloists.

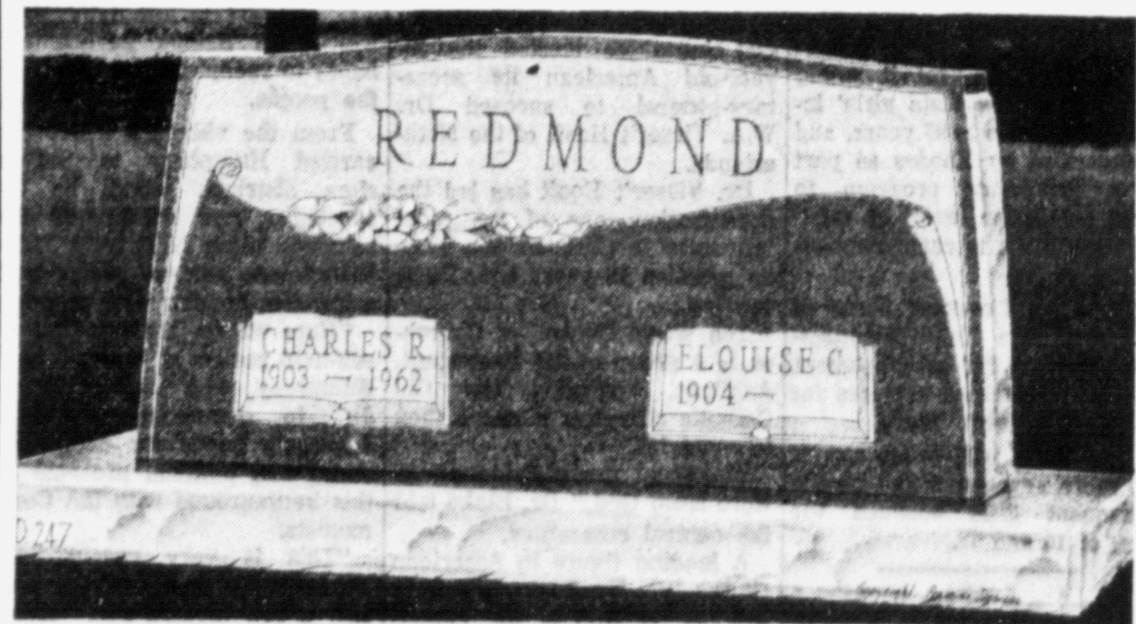

"Gene Kelly's New York," is a Monday evening song-and-dance special (10-11 p.m.) on CBS with the star assisted by Gower Champion, Woody Allen and Tommy Steele.

A conflict of special programs occurs Tuesday night when ABC presents "The Anatomy of Pop," documenting the emergence of the modern musical idiom with a star cast including Tony Bennett, the Dave Clark Five and Duke Ellington (10-11). At the same time there will be a CBS Report show on "The Divorce Dilemma."

Hope's special, with Martha Raye and Danny Thomas, is the highlight for Thursday on NBC (9-10).

2 Ohio Newspaper Boys Receive Signal Honors

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Two teen-age newspaper carriers move tonight into the Ohio Newspaper Association spotlight occupied Thursday night by two of America's top journalists.

Steven M. Stahl, 14, of Bryan, who delivers the Toledo Blade, and Dennis Kern, 15, of Aurora, Ind., a Cincinnati Enquirer newsboy, will receive the annual junior and senior Newspaper-boy Achievement Awards, respectively.

Honored at tonight's ONA banquet with the boys will be an impressive list of Ohioans whose careers are considered to have added to the state's prestige.

Walter Cronkite, CBS radio-television news commentator, and Louis B. Seltzer, recently retired editor of the Cleveland Press, received the association's Distinguished Service to Journalism awards Thursday night.

Cronkite, in an acceptance speech, urged upon his audience of journalists from throughout Ohio a need for "vigilance and indignation" over management of news by the government.

"I'm worried about the trend toward the planted lie," Cronkite said. He deplored this as an increasing government practice and maintained that too many newsmen are insufficiently indignant about such instances of untruth.

Raymond E. Dix, Ohio Newspaper Association president who publishes the Wooster Daily record, presented Seltzer's citation after Gov. James A. Rhodes welcomed the CBS man and praised the Cleveland editor.

Telegrams from former presidents Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower were read lauding Cronkite for "never-failing credibility" and strict adherence to "what he honestly believed to be the truth."

The governor said Seltzer had left an "indelible imprint" on Ohio.

Both Seltzer and Cronkite stressed that there is a necessary place for both the electronic media and the press in covering the news.

Seltzer said the day of the newspaper projected on the wall of the reader's home at his own convenience is an inevitable development—combining electronics and printed journalism.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Two teen-age newspaper carriers move tonight into the Ohio Newspaper Association spotlight occupied Thursday night by two of America's top journalists.

Steven M. Stahl, 14, of Bryan, who delivers the Toledo Blade, and Dennis Kern, 15, of Aurora, Ind., a Cincinnati Enquirer newsboy, will receive the annual junior and senior Newspaperboy Achievement Awards, respectively.

Honored at tonight's ONA banquet with the boys will be an impressive list of Ohioans whose careers are considered to have added to the state's prestige.

Walter Cronkite, CBS radio-television news commentator, and Louis B. Seltzer, recently retired editor of the Cleveland Press, received the association's Distinguished Service to Journalism awards Thursday night.

Cronkite, in an acceptance speech, urged upon his audience of journalists from throughout Ohio a need for "vigilance and indignation" over management of news by the government.

"I'm worried about the trend toward the planted lie," Cronkite said. He deplored this as an increasing government practice and maintained that too many newsmen are insufficiently indignant about such instances of untruth.

Raymond E. Dix, Ohio Newspaper Association president who publishes the Wooster Daily record, presented Seltzer's citation after Gov. James A. Rhodes welcomed the CBS man and praised the Cleveland editor.

Telegrams from former presidents Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower were read lauding Cronkite for "never-failing credibility" and strict adherence to "what he honestly believed to be the truth."

The governor said Seltzer had left an "indelible imprint" on Ohio.

Both Seltzer and Cronkite stressed that there is a necessary place for both the electronic media and the press in covering the news.

Seltzer said the day of the newspaper projected on the wall of the reader's home at his own convenience is an inevitable development—combining electronics and printed journalism.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D. What is now known that is new about the common cold? The common cold still persists as a great scientific mystery. Up to the present time the culprit has been as elusive as ever, while patients and doctors frustratingly await a definite cure. The common cold still takes a huge toll in health and money that amounts to more than five billion dollars a year in lost wages and medical expenses. The toll is even greater when the common cold is neglected and becomes complicated by bronchitis, pneumonia and pleurisy. The only thing that is truly new is that the cause of the common cold is one or more of a combination of viruses. How does the common cold differ from a sinus infection? A sinusitis is an infection of the sinuses by a germ or bacteria. The sinuses are made more vulnerable by the common cold. In addition to the early symptoms of general discomfort, a runny nose and watery eyes, fever, sore throat, and tender glands in the neck, sinus infections have other symptoms. Headache and tenderness beneath the eyes and sometimes in the teeth follow sinus infections. The common cold is called by many names — the grippie, flu and virus. Despite the mask of another name, the symptoms are almost the same. Are vaccines and antibiotics effective in the prevention or cure of the common cold? Because so many different viruses can cause a cold, a satisfactory vaccine is still not available. Some specific vaccines, like the one commonly used against the Asian Flu, are considered highly effective. Antibiotics have absolutely no effect on the common cold because they do not destroy viruses. Antibiotics are effective against bacteria and are, therefore, used with discretion by physicians to prevent or treat any of the complications of the common cold. Antihistamines do not alter the course of the common cold unless there is a known allergic element. Vitamins do not prevent colds. Nevertheless, vitamin supplements should be taken by children and by the elderly during the cold, sunless days of winter.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Sir: My letter is one of appreciation and gratitude and especially one of praise. As we all know last Sunday evening Mrs. Marjorie Callihan was involved in an automobile accident which pinned her in the car. It required 50 minutes of hard work to free her. When I arrived at the scene great efforts were being made to free her from the automobile. At this time several men, who up to now are still anonymous, came forward to offer their services. One was holding the patient's head and comforting her. Several were trying very hard to remove the front seat so the woman could be freed. One gentleman, wearing a blue parka, brought his own tools and successfully unbolted the seat. Members of the police department, Wesley Barton and Richard Anderson, were also very helpful. The fire department was present to offer help in any way needed. A wrecking service was present and helped in removing the patient from the automobile. Mader's Ambulance service was in waiting to take the injured woman to the hospital. Upon my request the hospital staff was alerted and mobilized for immediate care of this seriously injured patient. Mrs. Rosengreen, and Miss Atwood, registered nurses, had the emergency room ready. The operating room staff, Mrs. Robinson and Mrs. Dol-dozor, RN's, and Mrs. Teets had the operating room ready for immediate surgery. These women were on hand at the emergency room to assist with first-aid. Ralph Altmeier from the X-ray department and Paul Roan, laboratory technician, were also present to take care of the patient. Numerous donors were also there in case blood was needed. The entire procedure was one big community effort. The hospital staff must be commended for its marvelous effort to save this woman's life. I am very proud of them and of everyone who gave of their time and effort to make this undertaking successful. I think our entire community should feel most proud.

$5 Bill — A Cushion of Safety

By Hal Boyle

The Circleville Herald, Fri. Feb. 11, 1966
Circleville, Ohio

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans earn hundreds of billions of dollars a year.

We loose on an awed world a tidal flood of products. We waste or discard enough to keep another population our size in comfort.

But what keeps our gigantic system functioning? What fuels our whole economy? What really primes the pump?

It isn't the Federal Reserve System. It isn't all the gold in Ft. Knox. It isn't even the installment plan.

It is the office $5 bill, the white collar class cushion of safety.

It is a wonder that the big-brained economists haven't yet discovered the importance of the office $5 bill to the U.S. business structure. It plays the same role that cigarettes did in parts of ravaged Europe after World War II.

Remember the story? Commerce was at a standstill in one German village because no kind of money was trusted. Then an American passing through town gave a cigarette to a German.

A cigarette! Here was something of known value and real scarcity. The man took it to his butcher and traded it for a pound of meat.

The butcher took the cigarette to a cobbler and had his shoes repaired. The cobbler took it to a glazier who fixed his bombed-out window. The glazier traded it to a storekeeper for a pair of heavy gloves. The storekeeper paid it to his helper for a week's work. The helper gave it to a farmer for a basket of turnips. The farmer gave it to the butcher for a pound of meat, and he—

Well, the town was rapidly getting back on its feet. And then some darned fool smoked the cigarette! Business was immediately paralyzed again.

The U.S. office $5 bill today is just like that cigarette in late 1945 in Germany.

On Monday some plush fellow with an extra $5 bill uses it to pay off a debt to the straw boss. The straw boss lends it to one of the salesmen. A secretary borrows it from the salesman. The junior executive borrows it from the secretary.

The $5 bill circulates through the office, building morale and inspiring confidence in the American way.

Then, late Wednesday afternoon, someone routinely trying to borrow the office $5 bill makes a surprising discovery. Some darn fool has spent it!

Who? The culprit quickly is discovered and surrounded by a surly mob of fellow employees.

Until they can cash their checks on payday the staff is gripped by financial doldrums. Nobody in the place lends, barrows or buys.

Things stay that way until Monday, when another temporarily flush fellow puts a new $5 bill in circulation, and the white collar peons regain their faith in a viable economy.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLMAN, M.D.

What is now known that is new about the common cold?

The common cold still persists as a great scientific mystery. Up to the present time the culprit has been as elusive as ever, while patients and doctors frustratingly await a definite cure.

The common cold still takes a huge toll in health and money that amounts to more than five billion dollars a year in lost wages and medical expenses. The toll is even greater when the common cold is neglected and becomes complicated by bronchitis, pneumonia and pleurisy.

The only thing that is truly new is that the cause of the common cold is one or more of a combination of viruses.

How does the common cold differ from a sinus infection?

A sinusitis is an infection of the sinuses by a germ or bacteria. The sinuses are made more vulnerable by the common cold. In addition to the early symptoms of general discomfort, a runny nose and watery eyes, fever, sore throat, and tender glands in the neck, sinus infections have other symptoms. Headache and tenderness beneath the eyes and sometimes in the teeth follow sinus infections.

The common cold is called by many names — the gripe, flu and virus. Despite the mask of another name, the symptoms are almost the same.

Are vaccines and antibiotics effective in the prevention or cure of the common cold?

Because so many different viruses can cause a cold, a satisfactory vaccine is still not available. Some specific vaccines, like the one commonly used against the Asian Flu, are considered highly effective.

Antibiotics have absolutely no effect on the common cold because they do not destroy viruses. Antibiotics are effective against bacteria and are, therefore, used with discretion by physicians to prevent or treat any of the complications of the common cold.

Antihistamines do not alter the course of the common cold unless there is a known allergic element.

Vitamins do not prevent colds. Nevertheless, vitamin supplements should be taken by children and by the elderly during the cold, sunless days of winter.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Sir:

My letter is one of appreciation and gratitude and especially one of praise.

As we all know last Sunday evening Mrs. Marjorie Callahan was involved in an automobile accident which pinned her in the car. It required 50 minutes of hard work to free her. When I arrived at the scene great efforts were being made to free her from the automobile.

At this time several men, who up to now are still anonymous, came forward to offer their services. One was holding the patient's head and comforting her. Several were trying very hard to remove the front seat so the woman could be freed.

One gentleman, wearing a blue parka, brought his own tools and successfully unbolted the seat. Members of the police department, Wesley Barton and Richard Anderson, were also very helpful. The fire department was present to offer help in any way needed.

A wrecking service was present and helped in removing the patient from the automobile. Mader's Ambulance service was in waiting to take the injured woman to the hospital.

Upon my request the hospital staff was alerted and mobilized for immediate care of this seriously injured patient. Mrs. Rosengreen, and Miss Atwood, registered nurses, had the emergency room ready.

The operating room staff, Mrs. Robinson and Mrs. Hol-dorfer, RN's, and Mrs. Teets had the operating room ready for immediate surgery. These women were on hand at the emergency room to assist with first-aid. Ralph Altmeyer from the X-ray department and Paul Roan, laboratory technician, were also present to take care of the patient. Numerous donors were also there in case blood was needed.

The entire procedure was one big community effort. The hospital staff must be commended for its marvelous effort to save this woman's life.

I am very proud of them and of everyone who gave of their time and effort to make this undertaking successful. I think our entire community should feel most proud.

Negotiations To End Viet War Sought

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon told a Washington news conference Thursday that criticism of Johnson's Viet Nam policies encourages the Communists.

He said Republicans should not join what he called "the appeasement wing" of the Democratic party. He added, "We should be for peace. We should be against appeasement."

Asked whether he thought the United States should conduct a holding action or step up the war, he said, "A greater commitment in all areas would certainly be preferable to accepting the disturbing line that we must sit back for a long drawn out war."

After meeting with Johnson, Goldberg said the President is interested in opening negotiations or in "a reciprocal reduction of hostilities with or without negotiations, which could be a significant step toward peace."

"In sum," he said in reporting on his talk with the President, "the American policy is a constant one. We seek an honorable peace in Viet Nam and it is for that reason that we have sought and seek the help of friends and adversaries in and out of the United Nations to bring this conflict to a quick and peaceful end."

The envoy said he had found a large degree of consensus at the United Nations on the desirability of arranging negotiations in a new Geneva conference, which would be based on international agreements covering the countries of Southeast Asia negotiated originally in 1954. He put major responsibility on the Soviet Union at this point for the failure so far to call such a conference. The Soviet Union and Britain were co-chairmen of the Geneva meeting in the past and Goldberg said Britain is willing to act.

"All that is required," he said, "is that the Soviets share our desire for a peaceful settlement based on the Geneva accords."

Goldberg was questioned at length about the issue of South Vietnamese Communist participation in negotiations. He recalled President Johnson had said that this was not an insurmountable problem "if Hanoi really wants peace."

But he said the questions about verification of this issue should be directed not to Washington but to North Viet Nam.

For many months the North Vietnamese position had been that the National Liberation Front would have to be included in negotiations.

On Jan. 28, Ho made public a letter dated Jan. 24 which he had sent to Communist countries on President Johnson's peace offensive which had then been under way for a month while bombing of North Viet Nam was suspended.

In that letter Ho rejected Johnson's peace overtures as false and hardened his stand on the NLF representation question, saying that the front would have to be recognized as "the sole representative" of the people of South Viet Nam.

Goldberg said the South Vietnamese government, which the United States supports, is "recognized by some 70 governments as a government while the Viet Cong is not recognized to be a government by anyone, including our adversaries."

Astronaut L. Gordon Cooper says, I don't think that any of us who have been Boy Scouts, who have grown up active in Scouts, and who have taken Scouting seriously can ever doubt that Scouting is one of the greatest influences in our lives as we were growing up."

Ex-TV Cowpoke Now Star for Italian 'Westerns'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Clint Eastwood obviously wasn't concerned about his image. He ordered hot tea.

The sight of a television cowpoke ordering tea instead of red-eye on the rocks would ordinarily be enough to make a horse opera fan head for the hills. But Clint Eastwood is no longer a TV cowpoke, "Rawhide" having suffered a mid-season demise after eight years on the range.

He is now an international film star. Eastwood, 35, is a fortunate fellow. The Hollywoods are full of saddle-weary stars of defunct TV westerns who don't even get calls to appear at the Waco Rodeo any more.

Eastwood, from Oakland, Calif., related his happy escalation. "Two years ago, I got an offer to do a western for an Italian company in Spain during my vacation from 'Rawhide,'" he said. "I figured it would be a lark — a way to get a change of scenery. I was paid $15,000 for 11 weeks' work and the whole picture cost $225,000."

"The director, Sergio Leone, injected enough satire to interest the intelligent movie goer, but not enough to scare off western fans. I figured the picture would either hit or miss — nothing in-between."

It hit. Eastwood said that the film, titled "For a Fistful of Dollars," drew more money in Italy than any western in history, and that includes "Shane" and "High Noon." It also did smash business in Spain and Germany.

Eastwood went back to Europe during his last hiatus to film a sequel, "For a Few Dollars More," at a salary of $50,000. He has heard that the film is outdrawing "Thunderball" in Italy. The result has been his inflated salary for the next film by Leone, tentatively titled "Magnificent Vagabonds."

Collegiate Support For Viet Policy Mounts

NEW YORK (AP)—Leo Savage, president of the Ohio Collegiate Association on World Affairs, told a news conference here Thursday support is mounting around the country for a "National March to Washington for Viet Nam."

It will demonstrate backing for U. S. policy. Savage said the campaign, based at Columbus Business University and allied with the American Friends of Viet Nam, has 85 or 90 collegians working on the March 26 project.

Eastwood, from Oakland, Calif., related his happy escalation. "Two years ago, I got an offer to do a western for an Italian company in Spain during my vacation from 'Rawhide,'" he said. "I figured it would be a lark — a way to get a change of scenery. I was paid $15,000 for 11 weeks' work and the whole picture cost $225,000."

Sea Bees Seek Men

The U. S. Navy's Sea Bee units are being strengthened in order to meet increased construction requirements which has created a need for an increase in skilled craftsmen and tradesmen.

Current instructions provide for interested men to be enlisted directly into the new Sea Bee program, according to Lt. Com. David A. Sollinger, commanding officer of Navy recruitment for this district.

He pointed out that men qualified and selected for the program are enlisted as petty officers in advanced pay grades, depending on the training and experience each applicant possesses.

The local recruiting station for this area is in Lancaster. The station has been authorized to begin processing applicants who meet the following basic requirements: must be under 40 years of age, have completed at least two-thirds of a formal apprenticeship program or have 32 months of progressive experience in a trade closely related to a Sea Bee rating.

Further information may be obtained by contacting the recruiting office in Lancaster.

Ex-TV Cowpoke Now Star for Italian 'Westerns'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Clint Eastwood obviously wasn't concerned about his image. He ordered hot tea.

The sight of a television cowpoke ordering tea instead of red-eye on the rocks would ordinarily be enough to make a horse opera fan head for the hills. But Clint Eastwood is no longer a TV cowpoke, "Rawhide" having suffered a mid-season demise after eight years on the range.

He is now an international film star.

Eastwood, 35, is a fortunate fellow. The Hollywoods are full of saddle-weary stars of defunct

Collegiate Support For Viet Policy Mounts

NEW YORK (AP)—Leo Savage, president of the Ohio Collegiate Association on World Affairs, told a news conference here Thursday support is mounting around the country for a "National March to Washington for Viet Nam." It will demonstrate backing for U. S. policy.

Savage said the campaign, based at Columbus Business University and allied with the American Friends of Viet Nam, has 85 or 90 collegians working on the March 26 project.

TV westerns who don't even get calls to appear at the Waco Rodeo any more. Eastwood is signed to star in a European-made western at a salary of $250,000 plus 10 per cent of the Western Hemisphere profits.

It's no press agent's dream. Eastwood, from Oakland, Calif., related his happy escalation.

"Two years ago, I got an offer to do a western for an Italian company in Spain during my vacation from 'Rawhide,'" he said. "I figured it would be a lark — a way to get a change of scenery. I was paid $15,000 for 11 weeks' work and the whole picture cost $225,000."

"The director, Sergio Leone, injected enough satire to interest the intelligent movie goer, but not enough to scare off western fans. I figured the picture would either hit or miss — nothing in-between."

It hit. Eastwood said that the film, titled "For a Fistful of Dollars," drew more money in Italy than any western in history, and that includes "Shane" and "High Noon." It also did smash business in Spain and Germany.

Eastwood went back to Europe during his last hiatus to film a sequel, "For a Few Dollars More," at a salary of $50,000. He has heard that the film is outdrawing "Thunderball" in Italy. The result has been his inflated salary for the next film by Leone, tentatively titled "Magnificent Vagabonds."

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren
Foundation of Straw!

DEAR ABBY: I am a young widow with two children. Recently I had a home built and became very intimate with my builder while my home was under construction. He has what he claims is a "sick" wife, and says if I wait awhile he will leave her for me. After eight months of waiting, she still looks as healthy as I am. Do you think he is just leading me on? How much longer should I wait?

WAITING

DEAR WAITING: Your builder worked a bit of romance into your house plan, but it wasn't meant to endure. The house is finished and so is the affair. You shouldn't need a set of blueprints to know that the builder didn't go with the house. Forget him.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is 23 and an only child. She was raised to appreciate the finer things in life and never had to suffer any hardships. Last June, after graduating from a university, she married a young art professor. They moved to Tampa, where he took a position as a commercial artist. Last month they moved to Miami, where he is doing free lance work. Our daughter has written that now she is pregnant and they are living in a mobile home!

I am so worried about her. Do you think in her condition, they should be living in a trailer like a couple of gypsies? I want to write and tell her she should come home until her husband can provide a proper home for her, but my husband says it would be meddling. I would like your opinion.

UPSET MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I think you have a smart husband. Don't assume that living in a "mobile home" is necessarily a hardship. Some modern mobile homes make a Park Avenue penthouse look like Tobacco Road. Leave your daughter alone, Mother, and keep yourself busy.

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday I ran into a friend of mine and I told her how beautiful I thought her daughter's wedding had been. She said, "Thank you, but we sure didn't come out very well on it."

Not knowing what she meant by that remark, I asked her. She then replied, "We put a lot more into her wedding than she got back in gifts."

What do you think of a person like that?

SPEECHLESS

DEAR SPEECHLESS: Not much.

DEAR ABBY: What's the matter with women? They go to the trouble of putting their hair up in those big curlers, then they snarl it all up and spray it with glue. They take an hour painting their faces, and for what? When their husbands pull them close for a little kiss or squeeze, they say, "Please, Harry, you'll muss MY HAIR!" or, "Don't — you'll smear my lipstick or smudge my make-up." Isn't the idea behind looking pretty to make a woman more desirable, kissable and lovable? So why do they put out the bait if they don't want to catch the mouse?

LOVE-STARVED

DEAR LOVE - STARVED: Those women aren't interested in the "catch" — they just want to see if the bait still works.

The World Today

By STERLING F. GREEN
For James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP)—"There is a smell of war in the air," remarked Dr. Otto Eckstein, just-resigned member of the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

The smell of war brings the remembrance of inflation. The remembrance can make people behave as if inflation were already here.

So they may rush to buy, before prices go higher. They may hasten to build, before building costs go up. They may place big orders for materials, because no businessman dare be caught in an inflating market with his inventories down.

And union leaders—if they think the smell of war is strong enough—may demand big wage boosts before wages can be frozen.

It's all called hedging against inflation. It can make a big inflation out of a little one, or even start an inflation where there isn't any.

All the aspects of what scholars call "the expectation of inflation" probably were in Dr. Eckstein's mind when he made his remark about the smell of war.

For the economist was making the point that inflation really isn't necessary. He was participating as a private citizen—and a distinguished professor at Harvard—in a panel discussion on the hazards and prevention of inflation. Naturally his views coincided with those of his former colleagues on the President's council.

At the height of the planned Viet Nam buildup, Dr. Eckstein pointed out, military spending will take just 7.6 per cent of the national output instead of the 7.5 per cent it has been taking.

No civilian shortages are foreseen. Despite a tightening labor market, the stepping-up of draft calls still won't reduce joblessness to the long-sought minimum called "full employment." And there will still be a little slack left in manufacturing plant capacity.

Congress meantime is grinding out a short-term tax law to sop up excess buying power, and the money managers are squeezing down the money and credit supply.

And the administration has reaffirmed, as its underlying anti-inflation weapons, the voluntary wage-price guidelines. These have helped for four years to moderate labor's wage settlements and industry's price decisions.

In theory, one could hardly disagree with Dr. Eckstein's view that inflation needn't happen. Actually many do disagree, and some of them are economists every bit as distinguished as he.

One of the dissenters took part in this week's panel debate with Dr. Eckstein. He was Arthur F. Burns, who headed the President's economic advisers in the Dwight D. Eisenhower administration.

Said Dr. Burns, in effect: The tax-boosting and credit squeezing are correct moves, but they come too late to offset the mistake already made.

"We've been manufacturing money at a very rapid rate, and that is what has been pushing prices up," he said.

And the President's plan to wipe out the inflationary deficit in federal cash accounts is fine, too—except that this fiscal turnaround will come in fiscal 1967, starting next July 1. The big inflationary pressure of increased defense spending is right now, and over the next several months.

What of the wage-price guidelines, then? "They are being extensively ignored or defied," said Dr. Burns. And: "They are rapidly losing their voluntary character. I fear there will be agitation for a price review board, and a wage review board—if not for outright controls on wages and prices."

That brought the discussion to the point on which all could agree: Nobody wants mandatory price and wage ceilings.

County Sales Tax Collections Are $206,168

Sales tax collections in Pickaway County for the two-week period ending Feb. 5 totaled $10,139.74, according to a report from the office of John D. Herbert state treasurer.

The total collection for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1965, is now $206,168.31, compared to $202,884.18 reported for a similar length of time last year.

Motor vehicle taxes during the two week period just ended totaled $9,178.12, bringing the total for the year to $172,314.18. One year ago, collections had reached $154,151.91 by this time.

Fraud Trial Drones In Dayton Hearing

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—The Certified Credit Corp. mail fraud trial droned on in U. S. District Court Thursday with the government introducing stacks of records. Grant Guthrie of the Securities and Exchange Commission continued testimony, with the aid of the documents aimed at establishing losses and mergers of the firm that went bankrupt. Five men associated with the former Columbus-based financial organization are on trial on 29 counts of mail fraud in selling securities and one of conspiracy to defraud.

Shepler Re-Elected Chairman Of Child Welfare Board

Kenneth Shepler, Route 1, was re-elected to his third term as chairman of the Pickaway County Child Welfare Board during this week's regular meeting.

The five-member board approved raising board payment to foster parents of school age children from $1.50 to $1.75 a day to cover costs of school lunches. Heretofore, foster children charged lunches. They will now pay as other students do.

Mrs. Margaret K. Barnes, executive secretary, reported that 196 children comprised the January count. One new custody case was accepted.

Forty-six children are currently in boarding homes; 23 in the Children's Home; 43 with own parents; 21 with relatives; three are in free homes; two with Ohio Youth Commission; two in the armed services.

ONE CASE was accepted by the State Crippled Children's Services and one case was closed, bringing the total in this service to 53.

Mrs. Barnes pointed out that under services for crippled children, federal-state funds paid medical bills of $2,779.41, while Pickaway County's share was $649.81 for December.

Other federal funds for December reimbursed the county, $1,115.27 for maintenance of children in foster homes and the salaries of two caseworkers. Parents' payments and children's allotments for January totaled $1,575.63.

Expenses for the Child Welfare Board, excluding the Children's Home, were $3,489.76. January budget for the Brooks-Yates School for retarded children was $1,823.54.

Winfield Koch, superintendent of the Children's Home, presented a summary of December costs including $2,791.97 for general expenses and $1,105 for salaries of superintendent and matron and five staff members. He reported $3,133.74 deposited in the county's general fund as the results of sales of produce, livestock and farm equipment.

The Child Welfare Board will conduct its March meeting in the conference room of the agency's new quarters at 137 1/2 W. Franklin St.

Dutch Reformed Church Raps Ice Cream, Santa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Swimming, dancing, fishing and ice cream are among a host of Sunday pastimes which, according to some elders of the Dutch Reformed Church, are undermining South Africa's churchgoers.

With over 1.4 million white worshippers, the largest religious following in the country, the Dutch Reformed Church deplores women's trousers, revealing skirts, shorts, ballet tights and bikinis. All are obstacles to moral purity, especially on Sunday, claim the churchmen.

Even Santa Claus is labeled "a derisive heathen impersonation," by the Rev. G. J. Korze, who wants the character banned. "People no longer please Christ but the devil," he asserts. Parson J. J. Viljoen, staunch opponent of the bikini, believes there is a lot to be said for apartheid of the sexes when it comes to mixed bathing.

"People would rather walk past the church door and go swimming on Sunday," commented another elder.

Among a growing list of "never on Sunday" bannings suggested by the Church are cocktail parties, newspapers, dancing, popular music, card games and sports.

Unless you are a hotel resident you cannot buy a beer on Sunday. But most South Africans keep a well-stocked bar at home.

Local Baha'i Group Lists Weekly Thought

The following is from Baha'i teachings: "Nationalism is a necessary step in the evolution of greater unities upon the planet. But nationalism must be sublimated into internationalism, and planetary unity must replace the discordance of nationalism."

To a high government official of America, Abdul-Baha once said, "You can best serve your country if you strive, in your capacity as a citizen of the world, to assist in the eventual application of the principle of federalism, underlying the government of your own country, to the relationships now existing between the peoples and nations of the world."

Movies are closed on Sundays, but a moment after midnight swarms of teen-agers line up for the late-night show.

Johannesburg is an almost deserted city on Sunday. Home parties are the order of the day. There, people frolic around their private swimming pools and consume as much liquor as they wish.

No all South African towns abide by the "no fun on Sunday laws." The resort city of Durban is crowded with sun-bronzed bikini-clad lovelies, and transistor radios blare.

Mainly aimed at South Africa's carefree youth, some towns have banned ice cream vendors, sexy cinema posters, and curvaceous shop window models in an effort to pressure more people into church on Sunday.

Ohio Farmers 'Appalled' by Milk Slash

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—D. R. Stanfield, executive vice president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, said Thursday that "farmers in Ohio are appalled at the slash in the school milk fund proposed recently to the U.S. Congress in President Johnson's budget for the fiscal year 1967."

Stanfield said that strong concerns and comments about the proposed budget cut had been expressed by leading farmers in a series of meetings around the state.

"This budget was publicized as a 'guns and butter' budget, but the butter angle was pointedly deleted when funds designated for dairy products for our school children were taken from the proposed budget," Stanfield said.

The federation official said "this move was uncalled for . . . and could easily be the death knell for this program. It also leaves the closely related school lunch program vulnerable to attack by so-called economy moves."

Watch That THUMB!

Peter loves to "fix things," even though he sometimes gets hurt in the process. Yesterday he pinched his finger with the pliers. Today, he'll probably end up by banging his thumb with the hammer. But tomorrow he'll be right back at it again . . . learning the hard way!

From childhood, we learn best by personal experience. Our natural curiosity makes it difficult for us to accept advice from others. We want to find out for ourselves . . . and life has some hard lessons to teach us. Among other things, we have to discover that material possessions are no guarantee of happiness . . . and that money can't buy love, or health, or peace of mind.

Religious faith is another aspect of life that must not be left unexplored. Christianity has been tested by time . . . and it stands ready to be tested by YOU. Don't miss the greatest experience of all. Visit the church of your choice this Sunday.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Man Is a Person

MAN'S DIGNITY AND WORTH AS MADE IN GOD'S IMAGE

Scripture—Genesis 1:26-31; Hebrews 2:5-9; Matthew 12:1-14, 18:1-4.

By R. H. RAMSEY
The great phrase "in the image of God" has been given almost as many interpretations as there are branches of the Christian Church. Therefore, let us begin today's lesson with a brief discussion of this most important subject.

The "image of God" in which man was created cannot be an exact physical image, else we would all look alike and there could be no accounting for the multiplicity of physical differences among men. Rather, we believe, the "image of God" in which man was created is a spiritual thing, meaning that man possesses certain divine qualities which link him inseparably with God.

Man is different from the rest of God's creation in that he, to a certain extent, is on intimate terms with his Creator and between them is a relationship which other creatures do not and cannot possess.

Animals' lives are arranged for them by the Creator; they are driven by instinct to do certain things in a certain way.

of the dignity and worth of man in God's sight, with the legalistic Pharisees, let us turn to the second passage from Matthew assigned to our lesson. Here we find Jesus answering the question of His own disciples as to who is greatest in the kingdom of heaven. In His reply we see the great tenderness and great thunder of Jesus. Of all mankind, none is more precious in the sight of the Father and the Son than the "little ones"—the children. And we ought to him who despises them or causes them to stumble. The man who offends a child is the man who wounds the world, for the Angels which are the heavenly counterparts of children always have ready access to God's presence. It is God's will that none should perish; and the age-abiding Ghenna of fire is the place for the man who lacks the child-heart. Under special consideration are the "little ones who believe in Me." In them the qualities which every Christian ought to reverence as reflections of Christ Himself are most likely to be found. The entire Epistle to the Hebrews was written for the one great purpose of revealing Christ to be infinitely superior to the angels, to the noble characters of the Old Testament, and to the Old Testament priesthood. The portion of today's lesson taken from this book has to do with first of these realms of superiority: God did not subject the world to angels, but to men. Man has lost this sovereignty through sin, but the original intention of God will nevertheless be carried out.

Rather than save the world through an angel, God puts into human flesh a Celestial Being, a part of Himself, making Him a little lower than the angels, but far above mankind. He was God's only begotten Son, Jesus Christ. Though His existence was human, He was divine. His death brought about the forgiveness of our sins; His resurrection gave us new hope; His ascension into heaven was the promise of eternal fellowship with God both for him and us.

GOLDEN TEXT

"So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them."—Genesis 1:27.

Man, on the other hand, has been endowed with something which puts him on terms of understanding with the Creator, enabling him to look up to Him in adoration and without fear.

Man has a true knowledge, righteousness and holiness not possessed by other creatures. He has intellectual power and a capacity to think God's thoughts after Him. He has a moral nature and a free will. He can know the difference between good and evil and can either obey or disobey God in his choice between the two. This, then, is the person of man created "in the image of God."

Next to God Himself man is the most important thing in the world, for man has been given dominion over all the creatures of the earth. Next to the will of God the welfare of man is all-important, for, as we learn in Matthew 12, the satisfaction of man's hunger and the healing of man's illnesses are far more important than the observance of rituals and the recovery of a sheep.

Dropout Rate Is Growing

By CONNIE CRABTREE

Why do students drop out of school? This is a hard question to answer for many of us today. Many parents say they wish they had the many advantages to get an education as we do today, but they wonder why students drop out.

The rate of school dropouts has grown to alarming proportions. More than one-third of the nation's young people quit school before completing senior high school.

The grave economic consequences of failure to complete high school is so pointedly evident that it is difficult to understand. The fact that unemployment is three times higher among male school dropout than among high school graduates should, in and of itself, convince all youths of the folly of abandoning secondary schooling. But it has not done so.

Since the reasons behind dropouts are many and varied, all segments of community life, spearheaded by educational, religious and civic groups, should join forces in a concerted attempt to stem the drop out tide.

The youth of any community is one of its most valuable assets and it is vital that the young people have every opportunity for successful careers in occupations of their choice. A sound education is, by far, the most important first step on the road to rewarding achievement.

"The kids are the most! I've never seen students who are friendlier."

Glenna's likes are madras plaid, cherry cokes and hamburgers. She doesn't exactly dislike boys either. Her few dislikes are freckles, country music, conceited boys and spiders.

Musical Notes

By LINDA RHYMER

Various students of Circleville High School and students from 153 other schools participated in the musical event at Ohio Wesleyan on Saturday, Feb. 5.

The following sopranos participated from the CHS choir: Christine Zehner, Mary Ann Yates, Melissa Willoughby, Carol Spangler, Leanna Brevard, Holly Bach, Laura Whaley, Sandy Jeffries, Kathy Fuller, Kathy Henn, Sharon Archer and Kathy Frericks.

The altos were Susie Linn, Connie Carter, Starr Tipton, Anne Spicer, Patty Painter, Jeanelle West, Martha Rogers, Susan Demjen, Linda Carney, Judy Perkins, Malinda Anderson, Cynthia Brackett, Linda Garrett and Kathy Howard.

Tenors were Randy Nelson, Joe Tomlinson, Chris MacKenzie and the basses were Bruce Breegle, Philip Niswender and Edward Shaeffer. Glenn Plum, Bruce Barnes and Eric Downing went from the CHS band.

The band members were divided into two bands, a Red Band of 125 pieces, and a Black Band of 125 pieces also. There was a string orchestra of 75 pieces.

The all day festival consisted of a morning rehearsal, an afternoon rehearsal, and an evening concert.

Students left CHS around 7:15 a.m. and returned around 11:30 p.m. The main objection the students had of Ohio Wesleyan was that the closest place to eat was two miles away and they had to flag a bus down to get there. Bruce Barnes, who went from our band feels that it was a very worthwhile and educational experience.

and that he did better than last year. But every one is sure this festival was an exciting event considering it was the largest festival Ohio Wesleyan has ever had.

Be My Valentine

By BRENDA DOWNING

No one quite knows how the gay, whimsical holiday America celebrates in February acquired its name. Actually the date has been celebrated for years as the Roman Feast of Lupercalia, dedicated to the pastoral god, Lupercus, and the goddess of love, Juno.

As part of the merrymaking, Roman maidens placed their names in an urn in the public square and bachelors were entitled to draw one to determine their "blind dates" for the coming year. In later years, the French and English had similar ceremonies. In France couples were given one year to marry or part company.

Written valentines appeared about 1400. At first they were anonymous and were hidden in hollow trees to keep disapproving fathers, who had come to regard the little valentines as proposals of marriage, from finding them.

The heart and flower messages grew in size and elegance until they were filled with cupids, and paper fountains, covered by filmy lace made by the giver.

But custom began to draw away from the over sentimental, and the gay, clever, modern valentine was born. Publishing houses began to assign their best artists and verse writers to the task of creating the greetings, that can now be purchased from a nickel to "whatever-you-can-afford."

In modern times, valentines are not confined to greeting cards. It is a time to give affection with gifts of many varieties.

Attention seniors!! 108 days left until baccalaureate services and 112 days until graduation.

Congratulations to all the seniors who have won scholarships.

Just four days left for you guys to get your special gal a box of candy.

The mighty Tigers will play their last three basketball games at home.

Beat the Blue Lions tonight!

"Batman" rates high on a favorite TV show survey taken among the boys. Girls seem to show favoritism toward "Peyton Place."

World History classes of Mr. Higgins are beginning the study of "Great Britain."

Tomorrow night after the basketball game the Emeralds will play in the high school gym.

Brenda and Connie Crabtree were in charge of getting the paper to press on time.

Circleville High School wrestlers traveled to Worthington Saturday to participate in a seven team match. Circleville came out on the losing end, but had many boys placing.

Tom Fletcher, a 175-pound junior, took the championship in his class. This was the only first-place scored by the Tigers. Ron Miller, another junior, took a third place in his class, to come in second on the Tiger chart. Other boys that placed were Jim Archer, a senior who was pinned for the first time in his life. He took fourth place.

Randy Martin came in with a fourth, James Campbell took sixth, and Craig Benzenberg placed sixth also.

The boys that did lose, wrestled far better than any previous match this year. The competition was the roughest of the year. Circleville has had at least one champion in this meet each year.

Tom Fletcher seems to be following in the footsteps of his older brother, Howard, who was a champ at Worthington two years ago.

ARMY SERVICE

Out of our crew of eleven men, seven of us served 24 years and 9 months in the Army. Out of this time we spent 12 years and 1 month overseas in England, France, Belgium, Luxemburg, Alsace-Lorraine, Germany, Burma, India, Africa, South Pacific and Italy.

Most soldiers don't like to talk about army service, except among themselves, but I will talk to the Boss and try to get any of the boys a little time off to EXAGGERATE on his service if you would like to talk with him.

Now me, I don't mind talking because I was in the BIG WAR with the RAINBOW DIVISION. We served 18 months overseas, 180 days under shell fire, we lost one fifth of all Americans killed in the War, were camped in 76 different places (several were one night stands), hiked 1188 miles (train rides were extra), gained more ground and saw more service than any other Division.

There has to be some one in charge of Army Troops. Our Top Sergeant here is the CUSTOMER. We shall make every effort to obey his command and satisfy him. If we haven't done that all we ask is that you tell us. Everything doesn't always run smooth but we certainly try.

It costs nothing to compare a Buick or Rambler before you buy. You'll come down now and make a comparison.

Musical Notes

By LINDA RHYMER

Various students of Circleville High School and students from 133 other schools participated in the musical event at Ohio Wesleyan on Saturday, Feb. 5.

The following sopranos participated from the CHS choir: Christine Zehner, Mary Ann Yates, Melissa Willoughby, Carol Spangler, Leanna Brevard, Holly Bach, Laura Whaley, Sandy Jeffries, Kathy Fuller, Kathy Henn, Sharon Archer and Kathy Frericks. The altos were Susie Linn, Connie Carter, Starr Tipton, Anne Spicer, Patty Painter, Jeanette West, Martha Rogers, Susan Demjen, Linda Carney, Judy Perkins, Malinda Anderson, Cynthia Brackett, Linda Garrett and Kathy Howard. Tenors were Randy Nelson, Joe Tomlinson, Chris MacKenzie and the basses were Bruce Breezle, Philip Niswender and Deward Shaeffer. Glenn Plum, Bruce Barnes and Eric Downing went from the CHS band.

The band members were divided into two bands, a Red Band of 125 pieces, and a Black Band of 125 pieces also. There was a string orchestra of 75 pieces.

The all day festival consisted of a morning rehearsal, an afternoon rehearsal, and an evening concert.

Students left CHS around 7:15 a.m. and returned around 11:30 p.m. The main objection the students had of Ohio Wesleyan was that the closest place to eat was two miles away and they had to flag a bus down to get there. Bruce Barnes, who went from our band feels that it was a very worthwhile and educational experience and that he did better than last year. But every one is sure this festival was an exciting event considering it was the largest festival Ohio Wesleyan has ever had.

Be My Valentine

By BRENDA DOWNING

No one quite knows how the gay, whimsical holiday America celebrates in February acquired its name. Actually the date has been celebrated for years as the Roman Feast of Lupercalia, dedicated to the pastoral god, Lupercus, and the goddess of love, Juno.

As part of the merrymaking, Roman maidens placed their names in an urn in the public square and bachelors were entitled to draw one to determine their "blind dates" for the coming year. In later years, the French and English had similar ceremonies. In France couples were given one year to marry or part company.

Written valentines appeared about 1400. At first they were anonymous and were hidden in hollow trees to keep disapproving fathers, who had come to regard the little valentines as proposals of marriage, from finding them.

The heart and flower messages grew in size and elegance until they were filled with cupids, and paper fountains, covered by filmy lace made by the giver.

But custom began to draw away from the over sentimental, and the gay, clever, modern valentine was born. Publishing houses began to assign their best artists and verse writers to the task of creating the greetings, that can now be purchased from a nickel to "whatever-you-can-afford."

In modern times, valentines are not confined to greeting cards. It is a time to give affection with gifts of many varieties.

Circleville High School wrestlers traveled to Worthington Saturday to participate in a seven team match. Circleville came out on the losing end, but had many boys place.

Tom Fletcher, a 175-pound junior, took the championship in his class. This was the only first-place scored by the Tigers. Ron Miller, another junior, took a third place in his class, to come in second on the Tiger chart. Other boys that placed were Jim Archer, a senior who was pinned for the first time in his life. He took fourth place. Randy Martin came in with a fourth, James Campbell took sixth, and Craig Benzenberg placed sixth also.

The boys that did lose, wrestled far better than any previous match this year. The competition was the roughest of the year. Circleville has had at least one champion in this meet each year.

Tom Fletcher seems to be following in the footsteps of his older brother, Howard, who was a champ at Worthington two years ago.

There will be more wrestling news in the next few weeks.

ARMY SERVICE

Out of our crew of eleven men, seven of us served 24 years and 9 months in the Army. Out of this time we spent 12 years and 1 month overseas in England, France, Belgium, Luxemburg, Alsace-Lorraine, Germany, Burma, India, Africa, South Pacific and Italy.

Most soldiers don't like to talk about army service, except among themselves, but I will talk to the Boss and try to get any of the boys a little time off to EXAGGERATE on his service if you would like to talk with him.

Now me, I don't mind talking because I was in the BIG WAR with the RAINBOW DIVISION. We served 18 months overseas, 180 days under shell fire, we lost one fifth of all Americans killed in the War, were camped in 76 different places (several were one night stands), hiked 1188 miles (train rides were extra), gained more ground and saw more service than any other Division.

There has to be some one in charge of Army Troops. Our Top Sergeant here is the CUSTOMER. We shall make every effort to obey his command and satisfy him. If we haven't done that all we ask is that you tell us. Everything doesn't always run smooth but we certainly try.

It costs nothing to compare a Buick or Rambler before you buy. You'll come down now and make a comparison.

Junior High Wins Thrilling 35-34 Cage Tilt

Frosh Take 51-20 Thumping from Lancaster Ewing

The Circleville Junior High and Freshmen basketball teams split a twin bill Thursday with visiting Lancaster Ewing.

The Junior high quintet won a thrill packed tilt, 35-34, with Kelly Barthelmas netting the winning points from the foul line after the game had ended. The frosh team was handed a 51-20 thumping.

Barthelmas made five points in the game. All came at the foul line and all in the late stages of play.

With the little Tigers down by three points and 49 seconds to go, Barthelmas was fouled. He pulled Circleville within one by canning both ends of a one and one situation.

CIRCLEVILLE then went into a press, stole the ball, but promptly booted it away. A Lancaster cager was fouled, missed his chance at the line and the Tigers came off with the rebound, immediately calling time out. Seven seconds showed on the clock.

On the inbounds play, the ball was thrown to Ty Ankrom, who shot and missed. Barthelmas came down with the rebound, and was fouled just as the buzzer sounded.

Ankrom was the leading scorer for the locals with 12 markers.

In the frosh tilt, the Tigers got off to a slow start, scoring only four points in the first half. Willis' seven point effort was tops for Circleville.

Last night's two games closed out the season for the junior high and freshmen teams.

Warriors Gain In NBA Struggle

BOSTON (AP) — The San Francisco Warriors have gained valuable ground in their struggle to move ahead of Baltimore in the battle for second place in the Western Division of the National Basketball Association.

Thanks to strong finishes by rookie Rick Barry and Paul Neumann, the Warriors were able to move one full game ahead of the Bullets Thursday night. And they did it by beating the defending champion Boston Celtics 128-117 in the only NBA game played.

Boston gets a chance to gain revenge tonight when it plays host to the Warriors in the second game of an NBA double-header at Boston Garden. Detroit plays New York in the opener.

UofC Gains Revenge in Wichita Tilt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Cincinnati is back in one of the Missouri Valley Conference first-place musical chairs thanks to an accompanying tune of "sweet revenge" over Wichita.

The Bearcats were the lone MVC basketball team to win at home on a full four-game slate Thursday night, belting the Wheatshockers 93-76. Wichita had beaten Cincinnati in their last five meetings.

The Bearcats sizzled with 66 per cent field goal accuracy the first half in joining Bradley at the top of the circuit with 6-3 records.

Roland West scored 23, Don Rolfe 22, Mike Rolf 19 and John Howard 18. Bearcat points as Wichita's Jamie Thompson bagged 28 for naught.

In other Ohio college games all close, Kenyon edged Denison 73-71 and Marietta tripped Muskingum 78-74 in the Ohio nipped Defiance 72-70, and Kentucky Wesleyan won at Steubenville 61-57.

Kenyon's John Dunlop caged 14 free throws, giving him a school record 151 for the season. He scored 26 points and Terry Parmelee 20—10 on free tosses—as the Lords overcame a big Denison advantage in field goals and rebounding and held off a late big red rally.

Kentucky Wesleyan's Sam Smith scored 29 points, 19 in the second half, as the Panthers came from behind. Wesleyan now has handed Steubenville two of its four losses and each team is 13-4.

5 Stars Get Average of $52,000 Pay

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

What is the worth of a base ball player who batted .302, hit 24 home runs and drove in 83 runs last year?

About $52,000, say the Pirates, Braves, Reds, Indians and Red Sox.

That's the average estimated 1966 salary of five star outfielders who signed contracts Thursday — Roberto Clemente, Hank Aaron, Vada Pinson, Rocky Colavito and Tony Conigliaro.

The .302 average, 24 homers and 88 RBI represent their average performance in 1965, but individually they stood out even more.

Clemente, Pirates, won the National League batting championship for the third time and second year in a row, hitting .329. He also rapped 10 homers and drove in 65 runs.

Aaron, Braves, led the NL in doubles with 40 while batting .318, hitting 32 homers and knocking in 89 runs.

Pinson, Reds, finished the season with a 27-game batting streak, longest in the NL in 1965. During the streak he batted .372 and wound up at .305. He homered 22 times and drove across 94 runs.

Colavito, Indians, topped the American League with 108 RBI while hitting .287 and 26 homers. Conigliaro, Red Sox, was the AL's home run leader, youngest ever in either league, with 32. He batted .269 and drove in 82 runs.

Nightly wagering on the 1965 winter - spring harness racing session at Yonkers, N. Y., Race way averaged $2,179,984.

Last-Minute Heroics Dot Cage Scene

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The college basketball season is providing a good backlog for movie or TV scripts. There have been more closing-second heroics than in many seasons.

Last Saturday, for instance, Dennis Kloke of Washington State, sank two free throws in the last five seconds to beat UCLA, Rick Whelan of Oregon State got a last-second basket to beat Stanford, Corky Bell of Chicago Loyola did the same thing to defeat Marquette, John Howard's jump shot with three seconds to go enabled Cincinnati to down Louisville and Dick Nemelka of Brigham Young scored in the last 11 seconds to down Utah.

The pattern continued Thursday night. Duke's Jack Marin tossed in two free throws in the closing seconds to seal a 78-74 victory for the second-ranked Blue Devils over North Carolina State. Unbeaten Texas Western, No. 4 in this week's Associated Press poll, had to go overtime before beating Arizona 81-72 for its 17th straight. Harvey Fox of Arizona forced the extra period with a jump shot in the last minute that tied the score at 67-67.

St. Louis whipped Tulsa 69-63 knocking the Hurricane out of first place in the wide-open Missouri Valley Conference race. Cincinnati and Bradley moved into a tie for first place by defeating Wichita 93-76 and North Texas 102-90, respectively.

Cincinnati and Bradley each are 6-3 in MVC competition now. Tulsa 4-3 followed by Drake and St. Louis tied at 5-4. Louisville, 4-5, downed Drake 57-53.

A capacity turnout of 12,400 at Raleigh saw Duke, upset by West Virginia Tuesday, rebound for its road victory over the Wolfpack. Eddie Biedenbach got 22 points for State, but missed a shot in the closing seconds that would have tied the score at 75-76. Marin's two free throws then put the Blue Devils, No. 1 in the country until this week, out of danger.

Texas Western went on a 10-1 spree with the score tied at 71-71 in the overtime, for its home-court victory over Arizona. Bobby Joe Hill, whose final-second basket beat Colorado State U, last Friday, led the Miners with 18 points. Ted Pickett topped the Wildcats with 19.

Bob Cole, a 6-foot-7 soph, led St. Louis over Tulsa on the Hurricane's home court. He sat out part of the first half, but led the Billikens in the second 20 minutes with 17 points and nine rebounds. Tulsa's Julian Hammond scored 24 points.

When There Is Good Ice, Ice Fishing Is Top Sport

PORT CLINTON, Ohio (AP) — For about $30 you can buy a weekend membership in the blue-blooded fraternity of ice fishermen who come up to Lake Erie when the temperature goes down.

But this weekend, the cost of ice fishing will be nil. The Coast Guard has advised that recent warm weather and rain have made the ice unsafe.

While some ice fishing is done around Sandusky Bay and at several inland lakes, most of it is concentrated around Port Clinton, Catawba Point and off Catawba Point in Lake Erie's Bass Island group.

Most icebeards take off from Port Clinton, the home of Island Airlines. In one of the airlines' Ford tri - motors, they make a 10-minute trip to South Bass or Middle Bass Island for a roundtrip fare of about $6.

"We carried about 400 (ice fishermen) last weekend," said pilot Harold Hauck.

During the fishing season, which usually last six to eight weeks, motels and hotels in the area, including one motel at the Put-In-Bay Airport on South Bass Island, do a thriving business.

Most charge $10 for overnight lodging and three meals—supper, breakfast and a packed lunch for the second day's fishing. On the first day, you should bring your own lunch.

A two-man shanty rents for about $12 a day. The tackle and bait you need, and a stove for inside the shanty come at no extra charge.

Guides like Walter Swisher have "ice buggies" for the ride to the shanty. These are stripped down Model-T Fords or old pick-up trucks.

The buggies are open so that passengers can escape in case the car happens to go through the ice. But this rarely happens.

That's because guides make sure there is an eight - inch layer of ice before erecting their shantytowns or driving their ice buggies.

Swisher uses a chain saw to cut holes in the ice for the fishermen. This job is done in advance of their arrival at the assigned spot.

Mrs. Robert Ladd of Put-In-Bay says her husband, a guide, will make sure your pot-bellied stove is warmed before you enter the shanty.

If the fish are biting, you may take 100 perch—and that's a conservative estimate. Of course some of these may be only four to eight inches long.

The Ohio Division of Wildlife puts no limit on the number of fish you can take.

Fishermen sometimes become so interested in the sport that they don't notice when the ice they are on begins to move.

The U. S. Coast Guard says it has been called three times so far this season to pick up ice fishermen stranded on ice floes. Between 70 and 100 fishermen were rescued in each operation.

Fish caught through the ice are so delicious that the sportsmen are willing to take some risk.

One guide put it this way: "We have bookings clear into March when we know almost for certain there won't be any ice."

Ohio Skiing Chances Are Rather Poor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — There may be skiing in Ohio this weekend, but don't count on it.

If there is, it will be on machine-made snow, and then only if temperatures turn colder than the weather bureau predicts they will.

Rain Thursday and temperatures in the 40s and 50s have dissipated virtually all the snow that had provided fine skiing on state slopes the past two weekends.

The only snow remaining is an average of one inch depth in the hills of the northeastern part of the state including the Akron and Youngstown areas.

The unseasonably warm weather which turned snow to slush also turned prospects for weekend skiing on Michigan and Pennsylvania slopes sour.

Many ski areas in Michigan are closed and conditions at others are no better than poor to good.

Benefit Tilt Grosses $500

Last night's benefit basketball game sponsored by the Circleville High School Key Club grossed an estimated $500, faculty manager Paul Sarchet reported today.

The CHS faculty downed the WCOL disc jockeys, 74-67, behind the 25-point scoring of Kelly Boyer, reserve basketball coach.

Sarchet said the game should net more than $300. The funds will be turned over to the Circleville Athletic Assn.

At age 37, Whitey Ford is the oldest player with the New York Yankees.

MARA Series Adds Events For Fillies

The Scarlet and Gray Cup Series scheduled to be contested at Scioto Downs during the week of August 22 has taken on a new look.

The popular early closing series, named in honor of former athletic greats at Ohio State University, was for 3 year-old Trotters and pacers only up until this year. This season, Mid-America Racing Assn. has introduced two new events in the series, with the addition of two $2,000 added money divisions for Ohio owned or Ohio bred 2 year-old trotting and pacing fillies.

John J. Chester, president of the MARA, has announced the following dates for the 1966 Scarlet and Gray Cup Series: Aug. 22, Aug. 26, Aug. 27.

The 3 year-old trotting and pacing events will be open to the world as in the past. Entries in the 2-year-old trotting and pacing filly events, must have been sired by a registered sire standing in the state of Ohio, or owned by a resident of the state of Ohio at time of nomination. Entries in the Scarlet and Gray Cup Series close on Mar. 15, 1966, with a $25 nomination fee, and a $50 starting fee.

In announcing the addition of the filly divisions to the Scarlet and Gray Cup series, Chester stated the added money events will answer the need of races for juvenile fillies, and the restriction of "for Ohio owned or Bred only" is aimed at enhancing the breeding industry in the state.

Weather Erases Aaron's Effort

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Tommy Aaron and the weatherman aren't on the best of terms today.

Aaron, getting his usual jump on the rest of the field, was the clubhouse leader with a three-under-par 68 Thursday before rain washed out the first round of the $60,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament.

All scores were erased, and the field was scheduled to make another try today, weather permitting.

The forecast was for occasional rain early today with a partial clearing this afternoon and partly cloudy skies Saturday.

Circleville High School Cage Schedule for 1966-67 Set

The Circleville High School basketball schedule for 1966-67 was announced today by Paul Sarchet, CHS faculty manager.

Dropped from the schedule are Lancaster, Pleasant View and Franklin Heights, three teams that have been on the Tiger cage card for several years.

To replace these teams, Circleville moved to the Columbus area, picking up Grandview and Bexley.

The season opens and closes with a pair of non - league games that should command top fan interest. The first tilt is

Football Cardinals Name New Coach

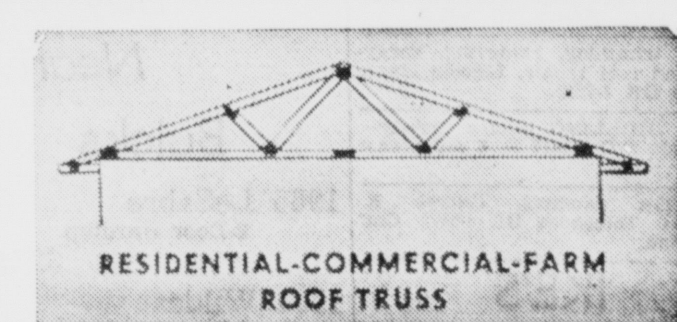

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Charley Winner, like always, inherited another tough job Thursday: making the St. Louis Cardinals National Football League champions.

He made it clear his idea of a solution was hard work, which he intends to pass on to his players.

Winner was the surprise selection by co-owners Charles and William Bidwill as head coach for a team that disappointed with a 5-9 record for fifth place in the Eastern Division last season.

Winner comes to the Cardinals after 12 years as an assistant coach with the Baltimore Colts of the Western Division. He is 41.

Warriors Gain In NBA Struggle

BOSTON (AP) — The San Francisco Warriors have gained valuable ground in their struggle to move ahead of Baltimore in the battle for second place in the Western Division of the National Basketball Association.

Thanks to strong finishes by rookie Rick Barry and Paul Neumann, the Warriors were able to move one full game ahead of the Bullets Thursday night. And they did it by beating the defending champion Boston Celtics 128-117 in the only NBA game played.

Boston gets a chance to gain revenge tonight when it plays host to the Warriors in the second game of an NBA double-header at Boston Garden. Detroit plays New York in the opener.

UofC Gains Revenge in Wichita Tilt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Cincinnati is back in one of the Missouri Valley Conference first-place musical chairs thanks to an accompanying tune of "sweet revenge" over Wichita.

The Bearcats were the lone MVC basketball team to win at home on a full four-game slate Thursday night, belting the Wheatshockers, 93-76. Wichita had beaten Cincinnati in their last five meetings.

The Bearcats sizzled with 66 per cent field goal accuracy the first half in joining Bradley at the top of the circuit with 6-3 records.

Roland West scored 23, Don Rolles 22, Mike Rolf 19 and John Howard 18 Bearcat points as Wichita's Jamie Thompson bagged 28 for naught.

In other Ohio college games all close, Kenyon edged Denison 73-71 and Marietta tripped Muskingum 78-74 in the Ohio nipped Defiance 72-70, and Kentucky Wesleyan won at Steubenville 61-57.

Kenyon's John Dunlop caged 14 free throws, giving him a school record 151 for the season. He scored 26 points and Terry Parmelee 20—10 on free tosses —as the Lords overcame a big Denison advantage in field goals and rebounding and held off a late big red rally.

Kentucky Wesleyan's Sam Smith scored 29 points, 19 in the second half, as the Panthers came from behind. Wesleyan now has handed Steubenville two of its four losses and each team is 13-4.

5 Stars Get Average of $52,000 Pay

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
What is the worth of a base ball player who batted .302, hit 24 home runs and drove in 83 runs last year?
About $52,000, say the Pirates, Braves, Reds, Indians and Red Sox.
That's the average estimated 1966 salary of five star outfielders who signed contracts Thursday — Roberto Clemente, Hank Aaron, Vada Pinson, Rocky Colavito and Tony Conigliaro.
The 302 average, 24 homers and 88 RBI represent their average performance in 1965, but individually they stood out even more:
Clemente, Pirates, won the National League batting championship for the third time and second year in a row, hitting .329. He also rapped 10 homers and drove in 65 runs.
Aaron, Braves, led the NL in doubles with 40 while batting .318, hitting 32 homers and knocking in 89 runs.
Pinson, Reds, finished the season with a 27 game batting streak, longest in the NL in 1965. During the streak he batted .372 and wound up at .305. He homered 22 times and drove across 94 runs.
Colavito, Indians, topped the American League with 108 RBI while hitting .287 and 26 homers.
Conigliaro, Red Sox, was the AL's home run leader, youngest ever in either league, with 32. He batted .269 and drove in 82 runs.

Nightly wagering on the 1965 winter - spring harness racing session at Yonkers, N. Y., Race way averaged $2,179,984.

Last-Minute Heroics Dot Cage Scene

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The college basketball season is providing a good backlog for movie or TV scripts. There have been more closing-second heroics than in many seasons.

Last Saturday, for instance, Dennis Kloke of Washington State, sank two free throws in the last five seconds to beat UCLA, Rick Whelan of Oregon State got a last-second basket to beat Stanford, Corky Bell of Chicago Loyola did the same thing to defeat Marquette, John Howard's jump shot with three seconds to go enabled Cincinnati to down Louisville and Dick Nemelka of Brigham Young scored in the last 11 seconds to down Utah.

The pattern continued Thursday night. Duke's Jack Marin tossed in two free throws in the closing seconds to seal a 78-74 victory for the second-ranked Blue Devils over North Carolina State. Unbeaten Texas Western, No. 4 in this week's Associated Press poll, had to go overtime before beating Arizona 81-72 for its 17th straight. Harvey Fox of Arizona forced the extra period with a jump shot in the last minute that tied the score at 67-67.

St. Louis whipped Tulsa 69-63 knocking the Hurricane out of first place in the wide-open Missouri Valley Conference race. Cincinnati and Bradley moved into a tie for first place by defeating Wichita 93-76 and North Texas 102-90, respectively.

Cincinnati and Bradley each are 6-3 in MVC competition now, Tulsa 4-3 followed by Drake and St. Louis tied at 5-4. Louisville, 4-5, downed Drake 57-53.
A capacity turnout of 12,400 at Raleigh saw Duke, upset by West Virginia Tuesday, rebound for its road victory over the Wolfpack. Eddie Biedenbach got 22 points for State, but missed a shot in the closing seconds that would have tied the score at 76-76. Marin's two free throws then put the Blue Devils, No. 1 in the country until this week, out of danger.

Texas Western went on a 10-1 spree with the score tied at 71-71 in the overtime, for its home-court victory over Arizona. Bobby Joe Hill, whose final-second basket beat Colorado State U. last Friday, led the Miners with 18 points. Ted Pickett topped the Wildcats with 19.

Bob Cole, a 6-foot-7 soph, led St. Louis over Tulsa on the Hurricane's home court. He sat out part of the first half, but led the Billikens in the second 20 minutes with 17 points and nine rebounds. Tulsa's Julian Hammond scored 24 points.

PORT CLINTON, Ohio (AP) —For about $30 you can buy a weekend membership in the blue-blooded fraternity of ice fishermen who come up to Lake Erie when the temperature goes down.

But this weekend, the cost of ice fishing will be nil. The Coast Guard has advised that recent warm weather and rain have made the ice unsafe.

While some ice fishing is done around Sandusky Bay and at several inland lakes, most of it is concentrated around Port Clinton, Catawba Point and off Catawba Point in Lake Erie's Bass Island group.

Most icebeards take off from Port Clinton, the home of Island Airlines. In one of the airlines' Ford tri - motors, they make a 10-minute trip to South Bass or Middle Bass Island for a roundtrip fare of about $6.

"We carried about 400 (ice fishermen) last weekend," said pilot Harold Hauck.

During the fishing season, which usually lasts six to eight weeks, motels and hotels in the area, including one motel at the Put-In-Bay Airport on South Bass Island, do a thriving business.

Most charge $10 for overnight lodging and three meals—supper, breakfast and a packed lunch for the second day's fishing. On the first day, you should bring your own lunch.

A two-man shanty rents for about $12 a day. The tackle and bait you need, and a stove for inside the shanty come at no extra charge.

Guides like Walter Swisher have "ice buggies" for the ride to the shanty. These are stripped down Model-T Fords or old pick-up trucks.

The buggies are open so that passengers can escape in case the car happens to go through the ice. But this rarely happens.

That's because guides make sure there is an eight - inch layer of ice before erecting their shantytowns or driving their ice buggies.

Swisher uses a chain saw to cut holes in the ice for the fishermen. This job is done in advance of their arrival at the assigned spot.

Mrs. Robert Ladd of Put-In-Bay says her husband, a guide, will make sure your pot-bellied stove is warmed before you enter the shanty.

If the fish are biting, you may take 100 perch—and that's a conservative estimate. Of course some of these may be only four to eight inches long.

The Ohio Division of Wildlife puts no limit on the number of fish you can take.

Fishermen sometimes become so interested in the sport that they don't notice when the ice

Fishermen sometimes become so interested in the sport that they don't notice when the ice they are on begins to move.

The U. S. Coast Guard says it has been called three times so far this season to pick up ice fishermen stranded on ice floes.

Between 70 and 100 fishermen were rescued in each operation.

Fish caught through the ice are so delicious that the sportsmen are willing to take some risk.

One guide put it this way:

"We have bookings clear into March when we know almost for certain there won't be any ice."

Ohio Skiing Chances Are Rather Poor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — There may be skiing in Ohio this weekend, but don't count on it.

If there is, it will be on machine-made snow, and then only if temperatures turn colder than the weather bureau predicts they will.

Rain Thursday and temperatures in the 40s and 50s have dissipated virtually all the snow that had provided fine skiing on state slopes the past two weekends.

The only snow remaining is an average of one inch depth in the hills of the northeastern part of the state including the Akron and Youngstown areas.

The unseasonably warm weather which turned snow to slush also turned prospects for weekend skiing on Michigan and Pennsylvania slopes sour.

Many ski areas in Michigan are closed and conditions at others are no better than poor to good.

Benefit Tilt Grosses $500

Last night's benefit basketball game sponsored by the Circleville High School Key Club grossed an estimated $500, faculty manager Paul Sarchet reported today.

The CHS faculty downed the WCOL disc jockeys, 74-67, behind the 25-point scoring of Kelly Boyer, reserve basketball coach.

Sarchet said the game should net more than $300. The funds will be turned over to the Circleville Athletic Assn.

At age 37, Whitey Ford is the oldest player with the New York Yankees.

MARA Series Adds Events For Fillies

The Scarlet and Gray Cup Series scheduled to be contested at Scioto Downs during the week of August 22 has taken on a new look.

The popular early closing series, named in honor of former athletic greats at Ohio State University, was for 3 year-old Trotters and pacers only up until this year. This season, Mid-America Racing Assn. has introduced two new events in the series, with the addition of two $2,000 added money divisions for Ohio owned or Ohio bred 2 year-old trotting and pacing fillies.

John J. Chester, president of the MARA, has announced the following dates for the 1966 Scarlet and Gray Cup Series: Aug. 22, Aug. 26, Aug. 27.

The 3 year-old trotting and pacing events will be open to the world as in the past. Entries in the 2-year-old trotting and pacing filly events, must have been sired by a registered sire standing in the state of Ohio, or owned by a resident of the state of Ohio at time of nomination. Entries in the Scarlet and Gray Cup Series close on Mar. 15, 1966, with a $25 nomination fee, and a $50 starting fee.

In announcing the addition of the filly divisions to the Scarlet and Gray Cup series, Chester stated the added money events will answer the need of races for juvenile fillies, and the restriction of "for Ohio owned or Bred only" is aimed at enhancing the breeding industry in the state.

Weather Erases Aaron's Effort

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Tommy Aaron and the weatherman aren't on the best of terms today.

Aaron, getting his usual jump on the rest of the field, was the clubhouse leader with a three-under-par 68 Thursday before rain washed out the first round of the $60,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament.

All scores were erased, and the field was scheduled to make another try today, weather permitting.

The forecast was for occasional rain early today with a partial clearing this afternoon and partly cloudy skies Saturday.

Circleville High School Cage Schedule for 1966-67 Set

The Circleville High School basketball schedule for 1966-67 was announced today by Paul Sarchet, CHS faculty manager.

Dropped from the schedule are Lancaster, Pleasant View and Franklin Heights, three teams that have been on the Tiger cage card for several years.

To replace these teams, Circleville moved to the Columbus area, picking up Grandview and Bexley.

The season opens and closes with a pair of non-league games that should command top fan interest. The first tilt is

Football Cardinals Name New Coach

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Charley Winner, like always, inherited another tough job Thursday: making the St. Louis Cardinals National Football League champions.

He made it clear his idea of a solution was hard work, which he intends to pass on to his players.

Winner was the surprise selection by co-owners Charles and William Bidwill as head coach for a team that disappointed with a 5-9 record for fifth place in the Eastern Division last season.

Winner comes to the Cardinals after 12 years as an assistant coach with the Baltimore Colts of the Western Division. He is 41.

Delta Queen Gives Belle OK for Race

CINCINNATI (AP) — Owners of the Ohio River cruise steamer The Delta Queen have accepted a challenge for a handicap race on May 3 against the Belle of Louisville but they don't intend to give the Belle a head start in any future race.
The Delta Queen is based here while the Belle of Louisville is owned by Jefferson County, Kentucky, and is based at Louisville.

The two river boats have staged three match races with the Delta Queen winning two of them.
Mrs. Letha Greene, president of Greene Line Steamers Inc., which operates the Delta Queen, notified C. W. Stoll, chairman of the Louisville and Jefferson County Board of Recreation, of acceptance of the challenge but said:

"Please let it be known to your board and owners that the Delta Queen will not be persuaded in the future to accept any handicap races; nor will it participate with the Belle on an even basis until the steamer
(the Belle) is made competitive and proved."

For the last three years the race between the two steamers has been a part of Kentucky
Derby week festivities at Louisville.

Dental Week Observed in This Area

The local Dental Society and the Pickaway County Board of Health are promoting observance of National Children's Dental Health this week, according to Mrs. Helen Pickens, county nurse.

The week-long observance marks the 18th year programs have been conducted to emphasize the importance of improved dental hygiene for children. Local dental societies and health departments join with the American Dental Assn. in sponsoring the campaign.

Mrs. Pickens said improved dental health is a continuing program in Pickaway County. She referred to two dental clinics conducted recently as part of the project.

The clinics were held at Williamsport and Salter Creek Schools as an experimental project, under the direction of Dr. James P. Henahan, DDS, dental consultant for the Ohio Department of Health.

As part of this week's observance, the combined dental groups and health units have distributed extensive literature concerning important facets of dental health. Included are releases on causes of decay, the benefits of fluoridating water supplies, care of teeth, gum diseases and other vital information.

Most of Viet Plans Untested

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — South Viet Nam's government has many plans for political, economic and social improvements. Attempts are being made to carry out some of them, on a limited scale, but most of them are still on the drawing board.

The delay is due to the war and the military buildup that in the past year have far overshadowed politics and other civil endeavors. The military situation dominates the scene.

The government amounts to a military junta made up of the generals who have come out on top after the series of coups and political upheavals which followed the overthrow of President Ngo Dinh Diem in November 1963. Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, an air vice marshal, and Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, the chief of state, head the junta.

The military government already has lasted longer than many persons expected. Despite rumors of more coups and some small-scale moves in recent weeks, it appears to be holding together.

In running the government, the military men meet behind closed doors and, so far at least, have come up with a unified front. There are compromises, and there have been reports of dissent, but no other group is in a position to challenge the military rulers as long as they do not fall out among themselves.

Student groups that once exerted a powerful influence through street demonstrations and other pressures now are quiet.

The Buddhist and Catholic religious groups that played leading roles before and after the fall of Diem have for the most part remained passively on the sidelines since the present government took over.

Aide to U.S. Viet Envoy Works To Balance Nation

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — What's happened to Lansdale?

That question is frequently asked in Saigon these days.

The man himself, retired Air Force Maj. Gen. Edward G. Lansdale, a near-legendary American operative in Southeast Asia, has the least to say about it.

Lansdale is in Viet Nam indefinitely at the request of U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

Since he arrived five months ago, the 57-year-old "senior liaison officer" and his 11 hand-picked aides have deliberately avoided contact with newsmen, working quietly out of an old French villa in a Saigon suburb. The anonymity is just starting to pay off.

When he arrived he told newsmen he was here to assist in "a noble cause." He apparently meant he would do all he could to bring out the best in Vietnamese people fighting communism. Lansdale had helped the late Philippines President Ramon Magsaysay do this, and, for a while, the late President Ngo Dinh Diem.

Lansdale works intimately with Lodge. Both are known to be concerned about the extent the military program has overrun the civilian one in Viet Nam, and the de-emphasis of the counter insurgency program in favor of conventional tactics. They are trying to redress the balance.

Civilian politicians still talk in the coffee shops, but they represent no central force.

The military government, partly because of the necessity of carrying on the war, has largely ignored the political basics of government characteristic of Western democracies.

There have been no elections for any office other than some powerless local officials. There have been promises of elections in 1967, but any steps in that direction undoubtedly will depend on the military situation and on the military leaders.

The U. S. aid program and agencies of the Vietnamese government have joined in sponsoring and promoting economic and social improvement projects throughout South Viet Nam.

U. S. officials have opened trade schools to give manual training in numerous fields. These schools are well equipped and offer a wide choice to the Vietnamese who attend them.

The Vietnamese government has undertaken an elementary school construction program. The schools, generally of three classrooms each and accommodating about 350 pupils, are being built with materials provided by the United States.

The establishment of what are called "economic belts" is planned for many communities in a campaign to aid the Vietnamese develop their own economy. The goal is to develop animal husbandry and agriculture.

Rural reconstruction programs are on the planning boards, but all are subject to the conditions of shifting warfare. The Viet Cong control about 60 per cent of the country and projects of every kind — economic, social, industrial — depend on which side is in control of specific areas.

Lansdale has no announced over-all program. He is here as a catalyst in a land that is weary of politics and war, one of his aides said, adding:

"You could call his missions an attempt to inspire the Vietnamese. He wants to see our Vietnamese as enthusiastic in their efforts as the Viet Cong are."

Lansdale had tussles with Washington officialdom in the days when he was chief American adviser to Diem. He probably had more influence with Diem than any other American when he worked in Saigon in 1955-56.

Lansdale was scathing in reports to Washington on the conduct and abilities of the official Americans then in Saigon. He moved back to Washington and eventual retirement from the Air Force in 1956 when it seemed apparent Diem was firmly in power.

President John F. Kennedy reportedly asked Lansdale to return to Viet Nam in 1961 as a trouble shooter. Opposition by enemies in the State Department and the Pentagon supposedly blocked Lansdale's appointment. Some derisively referred to Lansdale as a "king-maker", a charge that was not altogether wrong.

Lodge is known to have gone to President Johnson to get Lansdale over here this time,

Skilled Labor Is at Premium In Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland employers are resigning themselves to a continuing "tight" labor market as military manpower needs for the Viet Nam war continue to rise.

"We're quite conscious of the shortage of skilled and semi-skilled workers here," a spokesman for Republic Steel Corp. said.

"Welders are hard to get and machinists are in very short supply—as a matter of fact you can't get them."

He said the company currently has a lot of construction going on and contractors complain they can't get electricians or structural iron workers.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz told the Senate-House Economic Committee in Washington Tuesday that Cleveland's unemployment rate had reached 2.8 per cent, and its industry was experiencing backlogs of orders and longer delivery schedules.

Bob Nagy, manager of the industrial office of the Ohio Employment Service claims labor shortages have been apparent for several years. "I don't think it is any more acute than it was a few years ago," he said.

Mike Stanton, OES labor market analyst, says that skilled workers are "job shopping."

"They want toe salami and apple pie, and are very particular about which employers they accept jobs from," he said.

V. A. Rhodes, personnel manager of the Allison Division Army tank-automotive plant of General Motors, said so far they have been able to get the workers they need in preparing for production on a new tank contract, but they expect difficulty later.

Greatest shortages reported by companies and the OES are for such jobs as welders, sheet metal workers, machinists, machine operator and turret lathe operators.

Efforts are being made under the Economic Opportunity program to retrain unemployed in this area with marketable skills.

Part of the $18 million Economic Opportunity program funds allotted here provide 900 adults with education classes and 2,500 young persons with part-time work in the Neighborhood Peace Corps.

Another $240,000 has been provided for day care centers to care for children while parents work.

Some 450 heads of households are involved in project peace skills, a job training operation, while persons 16 to 25 are accepted by manpower advancement centers to prepare them for apprenticeship in a trade.

Cuyahoga County has 1,800 persons on relief, while another 240 are considered "marginal" welfare cases.

Local Post To Face Liquor Law Violation

The Ohio Department of Liquor Control will hear a case against operators of a local lodge during a session at its Columbus offices on Wednesday.

The VFW Post, 217 N. Court St., has been charged with selling intoxicating liquor to a non-member of the lodge and the illegal possession of gambling devices.

The citation hearings are open to the public and held in the commission hearing room at 219 S. High St., Columbus.

but with no "kingmaking" in mind.

Accused Slayer's Affair with Widow Is Developed

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A stream of state's witnesses say Melvin Lane Powers flaunted a blazing love affair with his aunt, Candace Mossler, before business clients, employees, handymen and jailbirds.

The latest sensation in the bizarre trial of Powers and Mrs. Mossler for the murder of her multimillionaire husband was provided by a witness who said Powers had boasted that he had made Mrs. Mossler pregnant.

Asked how her 69-year-old husband would take this, Powers was quoted in reply: "Well, the old s.o.b. will pop out his chest at having a kid at his age."

Mrs. Mossler, who says she will be 40 next week, is on trial for her life with Powers, 29.

The state accuses them of plotting the bludgeoning and stabbing of her husband, Jacques, for the twin motives of illicit love and money. The defense maintains that Mossler, head of a $33-million banking and loan empire, made innumerable enemies, any one of whom could have plunged a knife into him 39 times on June 30, 1964, in his Key Biscayne apartment.

Mrs. Mossler was away at the time, and Powers is depicted by the state as the actual killer.

Star state witness Thursday was Gene L. Owens, a slender dark-haired man with a dry voice. He said he once worked for Mossler and in March 1964, became manager of Powers' trailer sales firm in Houston, Tex.

Mrs. Mossler was at the time, and Powers is depicted by the state as the actual killer.

The heart of his testimony was that Powers once told him of Mrs. Mossler and her husband: "He said Mr. Mossler kept her nervous and upset. He said he loved her and that he ought to kill the old s.o.b."

Business wasn't too brisk at the trailer firm, Mossler said, and Powers was facing a credit blacklist when Mrs. Mossler agreed to loan him $8,000. That was about three months before the slaying.

"But she said that she was short of money herself," Owens testified, "and would have to be repaid with 30 days."

In his personal talks with Powers about Mrs. Mossler, Owens said:

"He told me she was pregnant and pregnant by him and about two months pregnant. This was in March 1964. I asked him about his condition, and he said he was happy and that Mrs. Mossler wanted to have the baby."

Mrs. Mossler, in a bright green frock, gasped so loudly it could be heard throughout the courtroom.

Owens, without elaboration, said Powers told him Mrs. Mossler had proposed that her nephew undertake a 14-story building, on some unspecified site.

"He said she told him," the witness continued, "that if he got the first story completed she would divorce Mossler and marry him."

An earlier witness, Joseph E. Dehart Jr., with a shock of dark hair, testified he worked briefly for Powers in the latter's trailer firm in Houston during May 1964.

Dehart said he knew Mrs. Mossler, once married to a man named Johnson, and he said of Powers: "He referred to her as Miss Johnson. I remember him telling me how much he cared for Miss Johnson and he said he'd even kill for her."

Dental Week Observed in This Area

The local Dental Society and the Pickaway County Board of Health are promoting observance of National Children's Dental Health this week, according to Mrs. Helen Pickens, county nurse.

The week-long observance marks the 18th year programs have been conducted to emphasize the importance of improved dental hygiene for children. Local dental societies and health departments join with the American Dental Assn. in sponsoring the campaign.

Mrs. Pickens said improved dental health is a continuing program in Pickaway County. She referred to two dental clinics conducted recently as part of the project.

The clinics were held at Williamsport and Salter Creek Schools as an experimental project, under the direction of Dr. James P. Henahan, DDS, dental consultant for the Ohio Department of Health.

As part of this week's observance, the combined dental groups and health units have distributed extensive literature concerning important facets of dental health. Included are releases on causes of decay, the benefits of fluoridated water supplies, care of teeth, gum diseases and other vital information.

Most of Viet Plans Untested

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — South Viet Nam's government has many plans for political, economic and social improvements. Attempts are being made to carry out some of them, on a limited scale, but most of them are still on the drawing board.

The delay is due to the war and the military buildup that in the past year have far overshadowed politics and other civil endeavors. The military situation dominates the scene.

The government amounts to a military junta made up of the generals who have come out on top after the series of coups and political upheavals which followed the overthrow of President Ngo Dinh Diem in November 1963. Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, an air vice marshal, and Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, the chief of state, head the junta.

The military government already has lasted longer than many persons expected. Despite rumors of more coups and some small-scale moves in recent weeks, it appears to be holding together.

In running the government, the military men meet behind closed doors and, so far at least, have come up with a unified front. There are compromises, and there have been reports of dissent, but no other group is in a position to challenge the military rulers as long as they do not fall out among themselves.

Student groups that once exerted a powerful influence through street demonstrations and other pressures now are quiet.

The Buddhist and Catholic religious groups that played leading roles before and after the fall of Diem have for the most part remained passively on the sidelines since the present government took over.

Civilian politicians still talk in the coffee shops, but they represent no central force.

The military government, partly because of the necessity of carrying on the war, has largely ignored the political basics of government characteristic of Western democracies.

There have been no elections for any office other than some powerless local officials. There have been promises of elections in 1967, but any steps in that direction undoubtedly will depend on the military situation and on the military leaders.

The U. S. aid program and agencies of the Vietnamese government have joined in sponsoring and promoting economic and social improvement projects throughout South Viet Nam. U.S. officials have opened trade schools to give manual training in numerous fields. These schools are well equipped and offer a wide choice to the Vietnamese who attend them.

The Vietnamese government has undertaken an elementary school construction program. The schools, generally of three classrooms each and accommodating about 350 pupils, are being built with materials provided by the United States.

The establishment of what are called "economic belts" is planned for many communities in a campaign to aid the Vietnamese develop their own economy. The goal is to develop animal husbandry and agriculture.

Rural reconstruction programs are on the planning boards, but all are subject to the conditions of shifting warfare. The Viet Cong control about 60 per cent of the country and projects of every kind — economic, social, industrial — depend on which side is in control of specific areas.

Aide to U.S. Viet Envoy Works To Balance Nation

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — What's happened to Lansdale?

That question is frequently asked in Saigon these days. The man himself, retired Air Force Maj. Gen. Edward G. Lansdale, a near-legendary American operative in Southeast Asia, has the least to say about it.

Lansdale is in Viet Nam indefinitely at the request of U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

Since he arrived five months ago, the 57-year-old "senior liaison officer" and his 11 hand-picked aides have deliberately avoided contact with newsmen, working quietly out of an old French villa in a Saigon suburb. The anonymity is just starting to pay off.

When he arrived he told newsmen he was here to assist in "a noble cause." He apparently meant he would do all he could to bring out the best in Vietnamese people fighting communism. Lansdale had helped the late Philippines President Ramon Magaysay do this, and, for a while, the late President Ngo Dinh Diem.

Lansdale works intimately with Lodge. Both are known to be concerned about the extent the military program has overrun the civilian one in Viet Nam, and the de-emphasis of the counter insurgency program in favor of conventional tactics. They are trying to redress the balance.

Lansdale has no announced over-all program. He is here as a catalyst in a land that is weary of politics and war, one of his aides said, adding: "You could call his missions an attempt to inspire the Vietnamese. He wants to see our Vietnamese as enthusiastic in their efforts as the Viet Cong are."

Lansdale had tussles with Washington officialdom in the days when he was chief American adviser to Diem. He probably had more influence with Diem than any other American when he worked in Saigon in 1955-56.

Lansdale was scathing in reports to Washington on the conduct and abilities of the official Americans then in Saigon. He moved back to Washington and eventual retirement from the Air Force in 1956 when it seemed apparent Diem was firmly in power.

President John F. Kennedy reportedly asked Lansdale to return to Viet Nam in 1961 as a trouble shooter. Opposition by enemies in the State Department and the Pentagon supposedly blocked Lansdale's appointment. Some derisively referred to Lansdale as a "kingmaker," a charge that was not altogether wrong.

Lodge is known to have gone to President Johnson to get Lansdale over here this time.

Skilled Labor Is at Premium In Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland employers are resigning themselves to a continuing "tight" labor market as military manpower needs for the Viet Nam war continue to rise.

"We're quite conscious of the shortage of skilled and semi-skilled workers here," a spokesman for Republic Steel Corp. said.

"Welders are hard to get and machinists are in very short supply—as a matter of fact you can't get them."

He said the company currently has a lot of construction going on and contractors complain they can't get electricians or structural iron workers.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz told the Senate-House Economic Committee in Washington Tuesday that Cleveland's unemployment rate had reached 2.8 per cent, and its industry was experiencing backlogs of orders and longer delivery schedules.

Bob Nagy, manager of the industrial office of the Ohio Employment Service claims labor shortages have been apparent for several years. "I don't think it is any more acute than it was a few years ago," he said.

Mike Stanton, OES labor market analyst, says that skilled workers are "job shopping."

"They want too salami and apple pie, and are very particular about which employers they accept jobs from," he said.

V. A. Rhodes, personnel manager of the Allison Division Army tank-automotive plant of General Motors, said so far they have been able to get the workers they need in preparing for production on a new tank contract, but they expect difficulty later.

Greatest shortages reported by companies and the OES are for such jobs as welders, sheet metal workers, machinists, machine operator and turret lathe operators.

Efforts are being made under the Economic Opportunity program to retrain unemployed in this area with marketable skills.

Part of the $18 million Economic Opportunity program funds allotted here provide 900 adults with education classes and 2,500 young persons with part-time work in the Neighborhood Peace Corps.

Another $240,000 has been provided for day care centers to care for children while parents work.

Some 450 heads of households are involved in project peace skills, a job training operation, while persons 16 to 25 are accepted by manpower advancement centers to prepare them for apprenticeship in a trade.

Cuyahoga County has 1,800 persons on relief, while another 240 are considered "marginal" welfare cases.

Local Post To Face Liquor Law Violation

The Ohio Department of Liquor Control will hear a case against operators of a local lodge during a session at its Columbus offices on Wednesday.

The VFW Post, 217 N. Court St., has been charged with selling intoxicating liquor to a non-member of the lodge and the illegal possession of gambling devices.

The citation hearings are open to the public and held in the commission hearing room at 219 S. High St., Columbus.

Accused Slayer's Affair with Widow Is Developed

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A stream of state's witnesses say Melvin Lane Powers flaunted a blazing love affair with his aunt, Candace Mossler, before business clients, employees, handymen and jailbirds.

The latest sensation in the bizarre trial of Powers and Mrs. Mossler for the murder of her multimillionaire husband was provided by a witness who said Powers had boasted that he had made Mrs. Mossler pregnant.

Asked how her 69-year-old husband would take this, Powers was quoted in reply: "Well, the old s.o.b. will pop out his chest at having a kid at his age."

Mrs. Mossler, who says she will be 40 next week, is on trial for her life with Powers, 29.

The state accuses them of plotting the bludgeoning and stabbing of her husband, Jacques, for the twin motives of illicit love and money. The defense maintains that Mossler, head of a $33-million banking and loan empire, made innumerable enemies, any one of whom could have plunged a knife into him 39 times on June 30, 1964, in his Key Biscayne apartment.

Mrs. Mossler was away at the time, and Powers is depicted by the state as the actual killer.

Star state witness Thursday was Gene L. Owens, a slender dark-haired man with a dry voice. He said he once worked for Mossler and in March 1964, became manager of Powers' trailer sales firm in Houston, Tex.

Mrs. F. B. Mowery and Mrs. William Raub are planning to leave by plane Tuesday morning for Miami, Fla. Mrs. Mowery will be met there by her son, James, and will spend several weeks with him at Par-rine, Fla.

Her son, Lloyd, expects to make a Florida trip in March to spend a three-week vacation. He will bring his mother home.

Mrs. Raub will visit in Miami with her aunt, Miss Minnie West, her niece and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Lemuel Brundige and her brothers - in-law, Loren, Vernon and Kenneth Raub.
